CAG FLAGS CONCERNS OVER THE CENTRE'S DEBT SUSTAINABILITY

The Centre's debt sustainability indicator was negative in FY20 as opposed to FY16-FY19, CAG said in its latest report

COST OF INTEREST PAYMENT ON THE RISE

Debt sustainability is the government's ability to maintain a constant debt-to-GDP ratio over a period of time. The Centre's debt was 52.30% of the GDP in FY20 against 49.33% in FY19. The CAG noted that in these two years, debt growth rate outgrew the nominal GDP growth rate. Also, the interest paid on debt has been consistently increasing over the years

CUT BURDEN, SPEND LESS ON DEBT SERVICE

- In FY16, the interest paid was at ₹4,57,270 crore which shot up to ₹6,55,371 crore in FY20 owing to ballooning debt
- CAG recommended that the Centre reduce its debt so that lesser funds are spent on interest payemnts and more of its non-debt receipts are available to meet expenditure priorities | P12

Tejashwi Yadav takes oath as deputy CM of the seven-party Mahagathbandhan govt; BJP stays away from the ceremony

Nitish fires first 2024 shot after his eighth oath as CM

RAMASHANKAR @ Patna

SHORTLY after taking oath as Bihar chief minister for the eighth time, Nitish Kumar on Wednesday fired his first salvo at Prime Minister Narendra Modi, saying, "The one who came to power in 2014 should worry about 2024 — whether or not they will be in power after that."

He added that he would work for Opposition unity to defeat the ruling NDA at the Centre, giving credence to speculation that he could later shift to national politics, vacating his chair for RJD's Tejashwi Prasad Yadav when the time came. For the record though, he claimed he was not a claimant to the post of PM and also did not harbour any such ambition.

Sharad Yadav, former JD(U) head who is now with the RJD, did not rule out the possibility of Nitish emerging as the Opposition's PM candidate for 2024. Within the JD (U), its parliamentary board chairman Upendra Kushwaha said, "Nitish Kumar has all the qualifications to become the PM. We are not staking any claim but he possesses all qualities for the post." JD(U)'s national chief Rajiv Ranjan Singh echoed him.

"It is too early to say anything as Nitish dumped the NDA to form a government with the seven-party Mahagathbandhan (Grand Alliance) just a day ago. But it is also true that he can be a PM candidate if the Congress takes the lead," remarked an analyst on the condition of anonymity.

The mood was upbeat in the Grand Alliance during the swearing-in ceremony. RJD workers distributed sweets outside Raj Bhavan till the event was on. Wide smiles plastered on the faces of RJD, JD(U), Congress, Left parties and HAM laeader said it all.

There was no BJP representation at the ceremony, which its leader Sushil Kumar Modi attributed to not getting a formal invite. Sushil Modi later created a flutter by claiming Nitish wanted the Vice President's post, adding he was ready to let the BJP head the NDA government in Bihar as quid pro quo. But when the BJP turned it down, he walked out of the NDA, alleged Sushil Modi. But Rajiv Ranjan Singh dismissed the claim, poking Sushil Modi instead, recalling how the BJP 'punished' him for his proximity with Nitish. P10

JOBS TO YOUTH IN A MONTH: TEJASHWI

Tejashwi touched Nitish's feet after taking oath of office as the deputy CM. He later said the aspirations of the youth would be fulfilled as the govt would initiate the process of providing them jobs within a month

KEEP WATCHING WHAT HAPPENS, SAYS CM

Nitish Kumar did not see any big problems in running the new Grand Alliance govt to complete the 2020 mandate. "Dekhte jayiye aage hota hai kya" (Keep watching what happens in future), was his cryptic one-liner

Digital lending now on RBI's leash

UMA KANNAN @ Bengaluru

TAKING a grim view of the rising number of frauds reported on loan apps, exorbitant interest rates and unethical recovery practices, the Reserve Bank of India on Wednesday issued guidelines to tighten the rules of lending in the digital space. The central bank said loan disbursals as well as repayments can only executed via the bank accounts of borrowers and regulated entities (banks and NBFCs). There should not be any pass-through or pool account of the lending service providers, the regulator clarified.

Under the new set of regulations, fees paid to lending apps should be borne by the regulated entities and not the borrower. The central bank also prohibited any automatic increase in credit limit without explicit consent of the borrower.

Issuing a detailed set of guidelines for digital lending, the RBI flagged the concerns related to unbridled engagement of third parties, mis-selling, breach of data privacy, among others. "RBI is not trying to stifle fintech innovation. However, certain guardrails are needed to protect consumer interest. In the past, unchecked innovation has led to disastrous results like fake apps. The onus of compliance is on regulated entities as always," said Kunal Varma, Co-Founder and CEO, Freo, a consumer credit-led neobank.

State govt staff seek hike, but will blow ₹12Kcr hole

ASHWINI M SRIPAD @ Bengaluru

THE BJP-led state government is facing a major challenge in the run-up to 2023 assembly polls. The Sixth Pay Commission's term ended on July 31 and head of the formation of the seventh pay commission, government employees are demanding 20 to 30 per cent hike in their salaries, which means an additional Rs 12,000 crore burden on the state's exchequer.

Allocating this huge amount will be a big challenge as the government cannot afford to ignore the employees' demand, especially in an election year. If pay is revised as per their demand, employees will get a hike of Rs 10,000 to Rs 50,000, depending on the cadre.

In 2017, the then state government had appointed former IAS officer M R Sreenivasa Murthy as chairman of the Sixth Pay Commission.

> Despite close to 2.6 lakh vacant posts, we are among top five states in development. The staff-shortage increases our workload
> — C S Shadakshari, State Government Employees Association

The first pay commission was constituted in 1966.

Speaking to TNIE, President of the State Government Employees Association, C S Shadakshari said, "In 2017, the Sixth Pay Commission had recommended a 29 per cent pay revision in the basic salary. It has to be done once in five years," he said.

Shadakshari said the pay scale of state government employees is much lesser when compared to the Central government and also other state government employees including Kerala, Andhra Pradesh and Tamil Nadu.

BALA CHAUHAN @ Bengaluru

In one of the most horrific crimes in the State in the recent past, the Mandya police arrested an alleged serial killer; a man (A1) and his partner (A2) from Dobbaspete on August 3 for alleged involvement in murders of three women, from Hebbagodi in Bengaluru, Hosadurga in Chitradurga and Chamrajanagar town in a span of a month.

On June 7, the police had found the torsos of two women - one in Baby canal in Pandavpura police station limits and the second in CDS canal in Arekere PS limits - which set them off on a hunt for the identity of the victims and the accused. The remaining body parts of the two victims and the body of the first victim is yet to be recovered, said sources.

"After recovering the torsos on June 7, the Mandya police had formed nine teams, circulated over 10,000 bills seeking information on the victims in Mandya district and Kerala and used a canine squad but there were no leads," said Superintendent of Police, Mandya N Yathish. P5

UK visas delayed, 7 B'luru kids to miss Children's Olympics

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE @ Bengaluru

THE hopes of seven student athletes from Bengaluru, who were preparing to leave for the United Kingdom (UK) to take part in the International Children's Games (ICG), were dashed due to non-arrival of visas from the Visa Facilitation Services (VFS) despite all applications being submitted six weeks ago. The Childrens' Olympics is scheduled to start from Thursday. Bengaluru was being representated in the ICG for the 14th time, this year.

Elvis Joseph, Founder Director, Bangalore Schools Sports Foundation, told TNIE that seven student athletes, in the 12-15 age group were training since November to take part in ICG. It is the only childrens' sports event recognised globally. They had applied for the visas on July 4 through VFS and according to the schedule given by the British High Commission, three weeks were required to process the visa. Elvis said officials at VFS could not be reached despite numerous calls made and emails sent to them.

However, for Elvis and the group (12-member contingent) only two visas were issued and no information was provided for the issuance of the remaining ones.

Extinct cheetah once roamed K'taka landscape

SUBHASH CHANDRA N S @ Karwar

EVEN as a national campaign to reintroduce cheetah into the wild in India's forests is on in full swing amid much opposition from experts, evidence points to the fact that the world's fastest cat once roamed the states of Karnataka and Tamil Nadu.

Documents reveal that the feline was sighted, adopted as pet and poached for its skin, before the last one was shot dead in 1952. The landscape of Karnataka has been home to the cat. A picture of two cheetah cubs playing with a dog is being circulated in Karnataka.

"It is said to be a picture from Dharwad. It has been sent by another officer, a friend of mine," said B J Hosmath, former PCCF and Chief Wildlife Warden.

The photograph caption reads, "The now extinct Indian Cheetah (declared officially extinct in 1952) cubs photographed by G S Rodon at Dharwad in 1897/published in the journal of Bombay Natural History Society (1897). The picture is now doing the rounds on social media.

HC issues notice to govt, EC, BBMP on ward delimitation rationale

Petitioner says splitting of wards done arbitrarily, is completely impractical

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE
@Bengaluru

ACTING on a batch of petitions challenging the notification issued by the Urban Development Department, providing for delimitation of 243 wards of Bruhat Bangalore Mahanagara Palike, the Karnataka High Court on Wednesday issued notice to the State Government, State Election Commission and BBMP.

Justice Hemant Chandanagoudar issued notice after hearing separate petitions filed by SD Gururaj, Shanthinagar Block Congress Committee, S Ismail Zabiulla and others, challenging the notification dated July 14, 2022.

One of the petitioners alleged that the notification splits wards into multiple portions, which fall within the physical boundaries of other constituencies. This is contrary to the requirement under Section 7(1)(b) of the BBMP Act, that a ward cannot be spread over more than one constituency. The splitting of wards has been done arbitrarily, without any rational basis, and is completely impractical. There has been no application of mind, a petitioner alleged.

"The wards are delimited into odd boundary shapes and geographical areas, resulting in citizens being required to travel long distances for basic civic requirements and public participation. This is not only inconvenient for citizens but creates a huge hurdle for administration of the ward as well. The delimitation exercise is based on population data from the 2011 census, which is outdated and inaccurate, due to the exponential increase in population by over 61 per cent since 2011," the petitioner said.

Another petitioner alleged that the delimited wards have been subjected to different population criteria in the Assembly constituency of Chamarajpet, whereas in the neighbouring assembly constituencies and other constituencies in Bengaluru, delimitation has been done on more uniform principles. This arbitrary discrimination is violative of Article 14 of the Constitution of India, and cannot be sustained, he claimed.

In another petition, it was alleged that delimitation had been done with an oblique motive to secure the upper hand for a particular political party, and make their win comfortable in the ensuing elections.

A petitioner alleged that the Scrutiny Committee formed after draft notification rejected critical objections, without providing any justifiable reasons. It has become evident that the state government has created odd-shaped wards, the petitioner said, giving the example of Ward 34 (Bande Mutt), Ward 1 (Kempegowda), Ward 105 (Belathur), Ward 152 (Byatarayanapura), Ward 153 (Yeshwantpur) and Ward 206 (Padmanabhanagar), in support of his claims.

BBMP ward reservation: 2,000 objections filed

The Urban Development Department (UDD) has received over 2,000 objections against reservation of wards coming under the Bengaluru Bruhat Mahanagara Palike (BBMP) limits. Wednesday was the last day for filing objections. The UDD had announced ward-wise reservation through a draft notification last week had given a week's time to file objections. The department is likely to examine the objections and publish the final draft within seven days. The government earlier issued the final notification on ward delimitation and officially recognised 243 wards with some changes made mostly in names of wards. Kaverinagar ward in Mahalakshmi Layout assembly was renamed as Dr Puneeth Rajkumar ward as a tribute to the late Kannada actor. After the list for 243 wards was released last week, Congress leaders accused the UDD of being a puppet at the hands of the BJP government as many winnable and sitting corporators' wards were reserved for women or Scheduled Castes. ENS

Keeping track: Palike to bring 6K shops under digital cover

MOHAMMED YACOOB @Bengaluru

AIMING to streamline the revenue flow from its markets, the Bruhat Bengaluru Mahanagara Palike is planning to bring 5,930 shops in 116 markets under digital coding and mapping. According to officials, this will enable the Palike to keep track of the exact status of ownership, pending dues and rents as well as avoid human error.

BBMP Special Commissioner (Revenue) RL Deepak pointed out that the concept was similar to the collection of house and property taxes with option of payment through online or the revenue office. Going digital will also plug loopholes, if any, he said.

"We have so many shops and some are in a dilapidated state. A few are in exclusive locations. But, in many cases, we don't know the actual owners and whether a property has been wrongfully sub-leased. We have information about a few people occupying the passage in a BBMP market complex. If all markets are brought under digital cover, there will be more clarity," Deepak said.

An official said the civic body plans to revise the lease period every three years. "KEONICS and another vendor has submitted such a proposal and it is in the early stage. After review, the proposal will be sent to the Finance Department and, only after approval of the Chief Commissioner, the actual process will began," the official said.

The BBMP is also planning to address the issue of illegal hawkers and parking mafia. "Some of our own officials are involved in wrongdoing," said a senior official.

Vendors who once ran shops inside Cox Market have now set shop on footpaths in and around the area | SUJITH SUJAN, SPECIAL ARRANGEMENT

22 yrs on, Cox Town market is complete, but of no use

S LALITHA @Bengaluru

IT has been 22 years since the BBMP market on M M Road, referred to popularly as Cox Town market, was shut for reconstruction work. While the building is complete, crucial infrastructure required to carry out daily business is yet to be put in place. Vendors who ran stalls in this 65-year-old market shifted their business outside a maternity hospital nearby, creating hygiene issues for the patients.

Chandrika Raju, president, Cox Town Residents' Association head, said, "Power supply has not yet been provided for the rebuilt market. Sewage facilities too are yet to be put in place."

The decision to rebuild the market was taken in 1999, and the shops were demolished in 2006. "Lack of funds delayed it in between. The market building was fully ready in 2020, but no handover has happened yet," she said.

Murali Simhadri, president of the Eshanya Bengalurina Nagarika Kalayana Mahavedike, said, "The non-allotment of shops to vendors is posing both a health hazard as well as traffic issue. People park vehicles on the roads and buy from footpath shops, causing huge traffic snarls in the locality. Even fish is sold on footpaths. All this could have an impact on the health of patients and newborns."

Moreover, an order by the High Court on this issue forbids conducting business on footpaths, but the BBMP is responsible for this violation now.

K Muralidhar, Deputy Commissioner, Markets, said the BBMP Engineering Cell has still not handed over the market to his section, so that shops could be allotted. "Payment to the contractor who executed the work is pending, Bescom has not yet provided electricity and some construction work is also pending," he said.

BBMP Chief Commissioner Tushar Girinath said the issue would be sorted out at the earliest.

Illegal buildings: Govt, BBMP get notice for inaction against officials

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE
@Bengaluru

THE Karnataka High Court on Wednesday issued notice to the state government and Bruhat Bangalore Mahanagara Palike over a plea for not prescribing punishment against officials and engineers of the civic body for illegal constructions in the city

A division bench of Acting Chief Justice Alok Aradhe and Justice S Vishwajith Shetty issued notice to the Additional Chief Secretary, Urban Development, and Chief Commissioner, BBMP, after hearing a petition filed by advocate S Umapathi.

The petitioner contended that the BBMP Chief Commissioner has the powers to take preventive action against illegal constructions, but no action was being taken. As a result, illegal constructions have mushroomed across the city in violation of building bylaws.

The petitioner also stated that Section 252 of the BBMP Act, 2020, provides power to the state government to take action against erring officials, but the provision has been rendered redundant since the term of punishment has not been prescribed by the government and hence the errant engineers and officials will go scot free.

Though more than 19 months have been elapsed since the enactment of new act, the Urban Development Department has not yet enforced it. As a result, BBMP officials, who are expected to prevent such illegal constructions, are protected by legal lapses, he alleged.

The petitioner had filed a similar petition in 2018 seeking directions to prescribe punishment for erring officials and engineers under Section 321 of the Karnataka Municipal Corporations Act.

11TH August : Globally, we're moving from a cautious to an adventurous zone today. That simple change, points to a loosening up in many arrangements, although we shouldn't expect chaos to break out. I think it's more a question of reviewing the situation to find out where we are and whether we're on the right track.

ARIES (Mar 21 - Apr. 20)
As much as the planets are urging you to risk your all financially, so they are sending fair warning that a gamble is likely to incur heavy losses. Caution has never been more necessary. One thing is certain - that your responsibilities are shifting, and could be growing more intense.

TAURUS (Apr. 21 - May 21)
Other people may imagine that they have you cornered, but how wrong they are. There is nobody as good as a Taurean at waiting and watching until the trouble has passed. You will emerge unscathed as always. But over the next week your big ambitions will come home to roost.

GEMINI (May 22 - June 21)
Wait awhile before broaching controversial subjects. Other people may not be ready to hear what you have to say. The fact that you are ahead of the field gives you a certain amount of leeway. In any event your lunar alignments are supportive, so you can afford a breather.

CANCER (June 22 - July 23)
If you have been despairing of someone else and finally ceasing to hope that emotional plans will ever work out, then cheer up: Venus' new role in your chart is bound to bring all the love you can handle, not to mention new friends and a fresh social scene.

LEO (July 24 - Aug. 23)
I don't think you will regret having made certain compromises or concessions. By being flexible and open to suggestions you will help ease a log-jam that was creating problems for many people. And, in freeing a blockage in your own life, you'll ease difficulties for others.

VIRGO (Aug. 24 - Sept. 23)
Personal events over the past few months have forced you to be more forthright and open, but you may still feel that one or two pieces of information need to be kept under wraps for now. You must - and will - seize the initiative, but you have to carry partners with you.

LIBRA (Sept. 24 - Oct. 23)
Venus, your charming planetary ruler, is now hovering on the edge of a sensitive region of your chart. You will shortly find that it is pure feeling and romantic aspirations that dominate your daily affairs. A suspicion is also about to be laid to rest.

SCORPIO (Oct. 24 - Nov. 22)
There are very sound astrological reasons why you should keep your own counsel and not get too bound up in what other people imagine is the right thing to do. You see, what may be fine for them could be utterly wrong for you. You may be out of sync with a partner, but it won't last long.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 23 - Dec. 22)
For most of you, everything will become less of a strain after the weekend, so why not go along with busy, challenging trends instead of resisting them? You may expect news from afar before long, and it could be this which finally determines you to take a new path.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 23 - Jan. 20)
Even a challenging planetary alignment can't put you off your pursuit of certain personal aims and ambitions. I have a feeling in my bones that what is said over the next few days may make up for past disappointments. And that just has to be good news.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 21 - Feb. 19)
Aquarius is a fixed sign, which means that although you appear to be ever so adaptable, in fact you tend to panic when faced with change that is not of your making. Be a little more flexible now, and you'll open the way to an invitation you always dreamt of.

PISCES (Feb. 20 - Mar 20)
An important opportunity is around the corner, and you will need to be ready, willing and able to take the plunge. You may already have an inkling of what is in store for adventurous Pisceans. You're difficult to pin down, and that can be an advantage.

Judge gives teacher a lesson in guiding kids

Says her actions were unpardonable

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE
@ Bengaluru

OBSERVING that traumatising children by any means, physical or mental, as a measure of punishment, particularly at a tender age, is unacceptable as it would have a devastating psychological impact on the child, the Karnataka High Court declined to quash criminal proceedings against a woman teacher who was booked for harassing a nursery student. The charges were framed under the provisions of IPC and Protection of Children from Sexual Offences (Pocso) Act.

IN THE HC

The five-year-old girl was studying at a nursery school in Bengaluru. A complaint lodged by her mother about an incident on February 24, 2017, alleged that her daughter would come home crying incessantly, and complain that her teacher beat her often, and would lock her in a dark room and let her out after two minutes. The teacher had also removed the girl's pants and revealed her body as punishment. Police filed a chargesheet against the 41-year-old teacher, and a case is pending before the special court, which was questioned before the high court.

Dismissing the petition filed by teacher, Justice M Nagaprasanna observed that a teacher is expected to guide a student, and tender the age, tender should be the manner. Children who experience aggressive behaviour or violence at the hands of a teacher often develop emotional and behavioural problems, their cognitive skills diminish and would have far-reaching consequences on the child's mind, and negatively impact academic performance. Aggression of any teacher on a child is unpardonable, he added.

"The statement given by the child narrates horrendous acts of the petitioner on the child. If the complaint and statement are read in tandem, they demonstrate that the offences clearly meet the IPC. For offences relating to sexual harassment of the child, Sections 11 and 12 of the Pocso Act are invoked," Justice Nagaprasanna said.

"It must be remembered, 'spare the rod and spoil the child' has metamorphosed into 'spare the rod and teach the child'. The act of the petitioner upon the child, unless otherwise proven by the petitioner in a full blown trial, is undoubtedly uncouth, unpardonable and unbecoming for a teacher who deals with a girl child of the age of 5 years," the court said.

Seized gym equipment stolen from bank's godown

BENGALURU: Gym items seized by a private bank located at Kada Agrahara near KR Puram have been stolen from its godown by miscreants. The accused gained entry by removing an iron sheet and cutting the emergency door locks. The bank had provided a loan to its clients who had opened fitness centres. After they failed to clear the loan or pay EMIs, the bank authorities had seized the gym equipment and had kept it at their godown. The bank had arranged security guards by outsourcing to a security agency. The land owner Rajanarayana Reddy, who had rented the godown to the bank, informed the staff about the theft. A police complaint has been filed by the bank from its regional office in Frazer Town. ENS

Vasectomies fall to 0%, sterilisation in women up: Report

NAMRATA SINDWANI @Bengaluru:

KARNATAKA'S family planning department is collecting data on men working in industries, auto drivers and eligible couples to conduct orientation and awareness programmes, explaining the advantages of undergoing a no-scalpel vasectomy (NSV) surgery.

Dr Chandrika BR, deputy director, family welfare department, said they are initiating the process from Kolar district, for which data collection is almost done. Based on the response, they will extend the programme to other districts.

Explaining the low percentage of male sterilisation, she said that since the pandemic, surgeries are almost negligible. At the taluk level, most hospitals were taking in only emergency surgeries. It also hindered raising awareness about it among men during the time.

The percentage of men undergoing vasectomy went from an already low 0.1 per cent to 0 per cent in the National Family Health Survey - 5, however, statistics for women showed a rise and stood at 57.4 per cent in 2021. "In my career, it's extremely rare that I have witnessed men undergoing a surgery. Since women are considered inferior to men, lesser number of men go through surgeries," said Dr Nivedita Jha, Consultant, Obstetrics and Gynaecology, Sparsh Hospital.

Any responsibility related to contraception is considered a woman's job, despite the process for a man being much less complicated. It continues to be a social stigma and taboo for men, they fear weakness and impotency post the surgery, which is completely untrue, Jha clarified.

Often, women are not aware they are being sterilised during the C-section delivery of their second child. It is a common notion that men are bread earners of the family and the responsibility of family planning remains with women, explained Sayantani Chatterjee, a population expert. These days, the frequency is higher among rural women, and urban women prefer using temporary contraceptive methods, she added.

Chamarajpet police, Muslim leaders hold peace meeting

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE @ Bengaluru

A day after holding a peace meeting with Hindu groups, including the Sanathana Parishad, Srirama Sene and Chamarajapet Nagarikara Okkoota, the police conducted a similar exercise for Muslim leaders and organisations on Wednesday. The peace meetings are being held after confusion arose over the ownership of Idgah grounds in the area and the decision of a section of residents to celebrate the Independence Day there.

The police said they appealed to the leaders to maintain peace during Independence Day celebrations. If law and order is not maintained, action will be taken as per law, the police told the leaders.

The meeting was held by DCP, West, Laxman Limbargi, who warned members of both communities against making any provocative speeches.

Members of the Central Muslim Association, which claims to be the custodian of Idgah grounds, told the police that they will ensure peace. "We will cooperate with the police. We all have lived in peace for over 40 years. We appealed to the police to take action against troublemakers. We will cooperate with the Revenue Department in celebrating Independence Day at the grounds," said Zaheeruddin, General Secretary, Central Muslim Association.

KAS ASPIRANT CONNED OF ₹59.50 LAKH, ACCUSED HELD

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE
@ Bengaluru

A 32-year-old conman, who had allegedly targeted KAS aspirants to extort money by promising them to get good marks in competitive exams, has been arrested by the Vijayanagar police.

The accused is Siddaraju Subhashchandra Kattimani, who hails from Belagavi. The police said Savitha Shantappa Yalasangikar, a KAS aspirant, had recently filed a complaint, accusing him of cheating her of Rs 59.50 lakh. The accused was arrested based on her complaint.

"Kattimani had come in contact with the woman through a common friend. Savitha, a native of Kalaburagi, had come to Bengaluru to prepare for the KAS competitive exam. The accused claimed that he knew several IAS and IPS officers and offered to help her in scoring well in the exam. Trusting him, the woman had first paid Rs 15.50 lakh in August 2020. He had further claimed that his supposed contacts had agreed to help her with Tahsildar's position. He also demanded more money from her. The woman had paid a total of Rs 59.59 lakh by selling her mother's gold jewelery and pledging agricultural land. After receiving the money, Kattimani started avoiding the victim and also threatened her," the police said.

The police are investigating if the accused had cheated others in a similar way.

BJP top brass crushes buzz on CM exit, backs Bommai

Seeks report on those spreading speculation, threatens stern action

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE
@ Bengaluru

CENTRAL leadership is said to have strongly backed Chief Minister Basavaraj Bommai and even sought a report about those spreading such theories.

Sources said that the BJP Central leaders dialled Bommai on Tuesday night and spoke to him about the speculation doing the rounds. They assured Bommai that there is no change in the leadership as they have already announced that the party will face the 2023 Assembly elections under his leadership, sources said and added that the leaders also asked for a report on those spreading such speculation and said stern action will be taken against them.

Statements from some BJP leaders, including former MLA Suresh Gowda and a series of tweets by the Congress state unit about silence in the BJP camp after Home Minister Amit Shah's recent visit to Karnataka had fuelled speculation over leadership change. Ministers and many senior BJP leaders have rubbished it and accused Congress of spreading them.

Sources said BJP Central leaders asked the CM to focus on the administration, ensure that the government programmes reach people and also start a state tour to strengthen the party.

The CM, who was in home isolation for the last five days after testing positive for Covid-19 is preparing to start a state tour. In the first round, he is likely to visit 60 Assembly constituencies to interact with beneficiaries of government programmes. On Thursday, the CM will visit Mandya.

Earlier in the day, former CM BS Yediyurappa too had rejected any leadership change and appealed to those spreading such speculation to stop it. The senior BJP leader said he is "100% confident" that Bommai will continue as the CM. Bommai will decide on cabinet expansion and other matters after consulting Central leaders, Yediyurappa said responding to a question on the delay in taking up ministry expansion.

Yediyurappa said the party high command will decide on the next party state president after Nalin Kumar Kateel's term ends. Kateel's term will end this month.

Yediyurappa said he and other leaders will tour the state and the BJP will come back to power in 2023.

The former CM, who had held discussions with Amit Shah during his recent visit to Bengaluru, said they had discussed political developments in the state.

Responding to a question on former chief minister Jagadish Shettar's visit to his residence in the city, Yediyurappa said all leaders are coming to discuss political developments.

NO CHANGE IN GUARD: SOMASHEKAR

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE
@ Mysuru

REITERATING that there will be no change in leadership in the state, Mysuru district in-charge minister S T Somashekhar said that from Prime Minister Narendra Modi, Union Home Minister Amit Shah to BJP national president JP Nadda, every top leader of the party has appreciated the work of Chief Minister Basavaraj Bommai, and there is no question of change in guard in Karnataka.

Speaking to reporters here on Wednesday, he said that this is the handiwork of the Congress to speculate about leadership change. "There are differences emerging in the Congress itself. Instead of solving their own problems, they are pointing at our party," he said.

He further challenged the Congress leaders to reveal how many chairs were exactly placed during Siddaramotsava. "We know the reality of Siddaramotsava. BJP, which has a good number of followers can hold three such events," he claimed.

OPPOSITION DEMANDS FLAGS BE GIVEN FREE

BANSY KALAPPA @ Bengaluru

THE countdown to demonstrate one's patriotism has begun, and already run into opposition from rival party MLAs, who claim they are being asked to buy the Tricolour and resell it.

In Karnataka, MLAs have been contacted by district administration authorities and told to pick up flags at Rs 20 per flag. Dharwad MP and Union Minister Pralhad Joshi said it is an occasion of pride. "Post offices are celebrating the spirit of freedom on the occasion of Independence Day by selling the National Flag at Rs 25, without delivery charges. So Bharatvaasis, get our pride, our Tiranga online via ePost office portal."

Karnataka's World Heritage Site Hampi, on the banks of the Tungabhadra, along with the Virupaksha temple and stone chariot, are draped in the colours of the flag.

Opposition legislators and leaders want to know why the flags cannot be distributed free, and the desire to express patriotism be made more equitable. KPCC president DK Shivakumar said, "Why cannot it be given free to the people? The price of rice in ration shops is also subsidised at Rs 25 per kg."

Opposition leader in the Council B K Hariprasad wanted to know why the movie, Kashmir Files, was screened free for the public, and tickets were made available to people in many places. Why cannot the government provide flags free so that everyone can express their patriotism. It's priced at Rs 20, some of the poorest may not be able to afford it."

Congress media cell chairman Priyank Kharge said, "The district administration office asked me to collect 20,000 flags by paying Rs 4,40,000 for the government's 'Har Ghar Tiranga' campaign. Taluk offices are being forced to buy, and in turn, sell faulty flags to people." One former Congress MLC said, "This is a trap the ruling party has set for the Opposition, with religious issues like hijab and so on. The Congress needs to tread cautiously so it's not seen as unpatriotic by a gullible public."

FLAGS AVAILABLE FOR ₹12, SAYS MLA

Kunigal MLA Dr Ranganath Dodaiah said the district administration offers flags at ₹20 per flag, though they are available for Rs ₹per flag. "I purchased 10,000 flags. I started a 15-day padyatra for the 75th Independence Day and covered 200 villages in my constituency, where I distributed the flags free of cost," he said.

CONGRESS MISLEADING PEOPLE, SAYS KARJOL

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE
@ Belagavi

SLAMMING the Congress for its speculation over replacing the chief minister, Water Resources Minister Govind Karjol on Wednesday said that the leaders of the grand old party are unable to tolerate various works taken up by Chief Minister Basavaraj Bommai for Karnataka's development.

Stating that Bommai would continue as CM, Karjol alleged that Congress leaders were spreading lies about the CM and trying to mislead the people. As far as the '40 per cent commission' allegations against the government are concerned, Karjol said, "I have told Congress leaders several times to bring at least one case to light where any commission was accepted by BJP leaders, so that action could be initiated. Such false allegations are being levelled by some people against the BJP at the behest of the Congress leadership."

The BJP has been performing well in the state, undertaking several works which the Congress government never took up in the past, instead they indulged in scams, charged Karjol.

Blaming the Congress for the partition of India, Karjol alleged that the grand old party had joined hands with Mohammad Ali Jinnah to divide the country. The Congress did not do anything for the country's development in the last 70 years, Karjol claimed.

Book chronicling George Fernandes' public life out

ENS @ Mangaluru

CANADA-based Mangalurean, Chris Emmanuel D'Souza, has authored a book on veteran socialist and former defence minister George Fernandes, titled 'Bandh Samrat' - Tales of Eternal Rebel. Addressing a press meet, D'Souza said the book isn't a biography, but a collection of events, life experiences, deeds and misdeeds of George Fernandes that coincide with India's political saga.

"The millennial generation is steadily forgetting its past heroes, and it has become increasingly essential to highlight some of the past glories of leaders, who have significantly contributed in shaping India's post-Independence political history. The book chronicles Fernandes' early trade union activism in Mangaluru, his struggles in Mumbai, his rise and stardom on the national stage, his tenure in public office, his bond with other great leaders, his notoriety, his antics and his U-turns in an illustrious public career spanning over five decades," he says. The book is published by Clever Fox Publications, Bengaluru.

CLP leader Siddaramaiah takes part in the 'Walk for India' march to mark the 75th Independence Day in Badami on Wednesday.

'Har Ghar Tiranga' campaign a political stunt, says Siddaramaiah

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE
@ Hubballi/Badami

LEADER of Opposition in the Assembly Siddaramaiah on Wednesday targeted BJP over its 'Har Ghar Tiranga' campaign, terming it a political stunt, and said it has nothing to do with patriotism.

Before leaving for Badami, he alleged that the BJP's parent organisation, RSS, was earlier opposed to the Constitution and the National Flag, and had not hoisted the Tricolour at its headquarters in Nagpur. "How could these people teach Congress and the country the importance of the National flag," he asked.

Reacting to discussions over changing the chief minister in the state, Siddaramaiah said he has no information about it. "While BS Yediyurappa was about to be changed, I had been told in advance. I have not been informed about replacing Basavaraj Bommai. Let BJP have a third or fourth chief minister, it is up to that party," he said.

Taking exception to the Centre amending the Flag Code, he said, "The fabric used for the National Flag should either be cotton or silk, but the new amendment has allowed the use of polyester, which is a disgrace to khadi and the freedom struggle."

Addressing a gathering after inaugurating 'Walk for India' to mark the 75th Independence Day at Badami, he alleged, "The Tricolour was opposed by Veer Savarkar, and now Prime Minister Narendra Modi is doing a stunt by launching 'Har Ghar Tiranga'. By amending the flag code, the BJP government has disrespected the Indian Constitution and the National Flag."

He said, "BJP works with a 'divide and rule' strategy. I appeal to people to teach BJP a lesson in the Assembly polls."

Ink on Tikait: Police submit chargesheet

ENS @ Bengaluru

THE High Grounds police have submitted a detailed chargesheet in connection with the attack on Bharatiya Kisan Union national spokesperson Rakesh Tikait, when ink was thrown at him at Gandhi Bhavan.

The incident took place on May 30 when Tikait and another farmer leader Yudhvir Singh were seeking action against then KRRS president Kodihalli Chandrashekar for his alleged involvement in an extortion case. The 450-page charge-sheet has statements of over 20 eyewitnesses. Details of the week-long telephone conversation among the accused about the plot to attack Tikait, technical and CCTV footage details have been included.

The details of the arrested, including Bharath Shetty, Pradeep, Shivakumar and Umadevi, are also in the chargesheet. The accused have reportedly told the police that the main reason behind the attack was to draw the attention of national-level leaders.

"The police have booked Umadevi under the Arms Act as lethal weapons, including machetes, were found at her house in Hebbal. More than seven accused have been arrested, of whom two managed to get bail," said an officer.

Properties of accused will be attached: ADGP

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE
@ Mangaluru

ADDITIONAL Director General of Police (ADGP) (Law and Order), Alok Kumar, said on Wednesday that the properties of those accused in the murder of BJP Yuva Morcha worker Praveen Nettaru will be attached.

Speaking to the media in Mangaluru before heading to Bellare where Nettaru was murdered, the ADGP said they will soon begin the process of attaching the properties of the accused after issuing a warrant against them through a court.

He said three assailants in Praveen's murder case have already been identified but they are frequently changing their hideouts.

"We had even traced their location once but just before we could nab them, they managed to escape. We have complete information about the accused, their families and addresses," the ADGP said.

Stating that it was a planned attack and the accused escaped from the crime scene immediately after the incident, Alok Kumar said they will not spare anyone involved in the crime directly or indirectly. He said National Investigation Agency (NIA) sleuths are also holding a parallel probe into the incident.

Asked whether the accused have links with any organisations, he said: "We cannot simply tell that they belong to any organisation or have links with it. Only after gathering sufficient evidence, we can confirm it."

Review meeting

The ADGP said he will also hold a review meeting with the heads of Dakshina Kannada, Hassan, Mandya, Chamarajanagar, Chikkamagaluru, Udupi, Mangaluru city and Uttara Kannada police on nabbing the absconding accused and on maintaining law and order situation in the region.

"Section 144 is already in place in the district. We will also review the situation on continuing prohibitory measures and maintaining law and order," he said.

"WE are demanding a 50 per cent hike in the basic salary and DA. Despite having close to 2.6 lakh posts vacant, we are among top five states in terms of development. The staff-shortage increases our workload," he said.

"In an election year, there is a lot of work like distribution of voter ID cards, making arrangements at polling stations and implementing government-announced schemes by the employees. There is pressure on the government to revise the pay," said a senior IAS officer. Sources from Department of Personnel and Administrative Reforms (DPAR) said that Chief Minister Basavaraj Bommai has not allocated additional funds in the budget. "On the other-side, there has been increase in collection of funds under commercial tax and excise departments. The setting up of the new commission and submission of a preliminary report will take not less than three to four months. Once the announcement is made, government will allocate funds in the budget and arrears will also have to be paid," sources said.

Illegal immigrants threat to national security: Araga

'They should be deported as they might indulge in anti-national activities'

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE @ Bengaluru

KARNATAKA Home Minister Araga Jnanendra stressed that there is a need to deport overstaying foreigners as they may indulge in anti-national activities.

The minister, who held a meeting with Social Welfare Minister Kota Shrinivas Poojari and senior officials of the police and social welfare department regarding expanding the capacity of the detention centre at Nelamanagala near here, said that illegal immigrants and those foreigners staying even after their visa period expires needs to be deported as they pose a threat to national security by indulging in anti-national activities.

Recently, the Karnataka High Court issued notice to the Centre and the State after hearing a PIL seeking arrangements to shift 38 Sri Lankan citizens, victims of human trafficking languishing in Central Prison in the city for over a year, to the Foreigners Detention Centre. In this background, the home minister had convened the meeting. DG & IGP Praveen Sood brought up the matter of increasing the capacity of the Detention Centre in Nelamangala. He said that the current centre is very small and there is a need to increase its capacity. "As per the law of the land, there is no provision to keep overstaying foreigners including illegal immigrants from Bangladesh in any prison. They must be kept at the detention centre," he noted.

Jnanendra requested Poojari to ensure that necessary grants are released and the capacity of the detention centre is increased at the earliest. Poojari instructed the social welfare department officials to take up the work on a priority basis and complete it soon.

Two injured in stabbing incident in Gadag district

RAGHOTTAM KOPPAR @ Gadag

IN a stabbing incident reported during Muharram at Mallasamudra village on Tuesday, two youths have been injured and the condition of one is said to be critical. The injured, Tousif Hosamani and Mushtaq Hosamani, are being treated at Gadag Institute of Medical Sciences (GIMS) Hospital and the doctors said that Tousif's condition is critical and he is under observation.

According to police sources, a disagreement that cropped up during the Muharram procession turned violent soon. A young man identified as Salman Badekhan's leg touched some people during the procession and the latter objected to his behaviour, which is said to be the reason for the skirmish. Salman's friend Yallappa Gudi and his brother Somu joined in. This led to arguments between the two groups. Meanwhile, some youths allegedly stabbed Tousif and Mushtaq. This created a tense situation in the village for a while. As Tousif suffered a deep cut in his stomach, the villagers immediately shifted him to GIMS Hospital along with Mushtaq. Soon after, security was beefed up in the village. On Wednesday, a case was registered against six villagers, namely Somu, Yallappa, Salman, Ramakrishna Handi, Shivu Gadagi and Dayanand Gudi. The police have already detained Somu, Yallappa and Salman and are looking for the rest.

After the incident, some villagers pelted stones at Somu's house but the police stopped them and brought the situation under control on Tuesday night.

SP Shivaprakash Devaraju said that they are investigating the incident following the statement recorded by Mushtaq. "Some are spreading rumours that it is a communal clash. As of now, there is no clear evidence of any communal angle to it. We request people not to spread rumours," he added.

IISc: Fish ear bones help detect sea temperature

BOSKY KHANNA @ Bengaluru

AFTER undertaking a successful study of estimating seawater temperature of the Atlantic Ocean, researchers from the Indian Institute of Science (IISc) are now keen on stretching their study to the Indian Ocean and the Arabian Sea.

The researchers from Centre for Earth Sciences, IISc, have found a way to estimate ancient seawater temperature and the rise in temperatures by probing the bones in the ears of the fish (otoliths).

Five fish species were assessed for the study, including Atlantic Cord, Black drum and Snapper. These are common fish and are known to stay in temperatures varying from 2-25 degrees Celsius. "With this, we are keen to do the same study in the oceans and seas in the Indian sub-continent with local fish species," Ramananda Chakrabarthi, Associate Professor, CES, IISc, told TNIE.

"When you go back in time, you do not have any fossilised seawater. Like corals, otoliths are made of calcium carbonate and grow throughout a fish's lifetime by accumulating minerals from seawater. Similar to tree rings, these otoliths also hold clues to the fish's age, migration patterns and the type of water that the fish lived in. In the current study, we have discovered fossilised otolith samples dating as far back as the Jurassic period," he said.

Organisms that live in the ocean are extremely sensitive to temperatures. A two-degrees temperature rise could lead to extinction of several species. In addition, because the atmosphere and the ocean are on talking terms, a lot of carbon dioxide in the atmosphere eventually dissolves into the ocean and this ability is also linked to seawater temperature – the lower the temperature, the more carbon dioxide is trapped. Just like a carbonated drink that loses its fizz as it warms up, the ocean loses its ability to hold carbon dioxide as it gets warmer, he explained. With the close correlation of calcium isotope ratios and temperatures, researchers are now confident that their approach can now be used on fossilised samples. Mapping early seawater temperature is important to better understand Earth's history, they said. "What happened back in time is key to our understanding of what will happen in the future," Chakrabarti said.

Killer had also planned to murder partner

"THE police then started sieving through 1,200 missing complaints along with other technical data like CCTV footage and tower dump analysis at suspected places. The first lead came from a missing complaint dated July 7 of a 32-year-old woman from Chamrajanagar. The missing complaint mentioned the date as June 5 though she had gone missing on June 3. She was in touch with a woman from Pandavpura taluka in Mandya, currently living in Bengaluru. The second lead came from another missing complaint dated May 2, of a woman in Hebbagodi police station limits in Anekal subdivision, Bengaluru. The complaint filed by the husband of the victim had mentioned the name of a man she was in touch with," said the SP.

Based on technical evidence during investigation, the police zeroed in on the accused and his partner and arrested them from Dobbaspete, the officer added.

According to sources, the investigation so far has revealed that A1 had reportedly called the woman from Hebbagodi - his first victim - on May 1 to his house in Andrahalli in Bengaluru West on the pretext of getting her a job. Upon reaching his house the accused had meals with her and called it a day. At night A1 allegedly strangled her to death, robbed her of her jewellery and sold them for Rs 90,000. He took the body on his two wheeler to Chitradurga and dumped it on the side of the highway near the lake bund. The police are yet to recover the body of the victim.

A1 allegedly claimed the second victim's life on May 30 after he called her from Chitradurga to his then place of residence in Metagahalli in Mysuru on the pretext of a job. He allegedly strangled her and cut her body with a knife. He then stuffed the body parts in two bags and covered them with flowers and leafy vegetables to conceal detection. He then carted the bags, threw one of them in Cauvery river and the other in the CDS canal, said sources. He sold the victim's jewellery for Rs 25,000, they added.

"A1 allegedly killed his third victim - a woman from Chamrajanagar, who was known to his partner (A2) on June 3 after he called her to Mysuru. He cut her body into two halves and dumped them in two bags; one each in a Katteri canal near KRS and the other in Baby canal. He reportedly sold her jewellery for Rs 90,000," said sources.

Giving chilling details about his next victim, sources said that on the day of his arrest, on August 3, A1 had planned to kill A2 - his partner - to erase evidence of his crime since she is a witness to the three murders. "He had four other people including three women on his hit-list," they added.

The interrogation of A1 has reportedly revealed that he had identified his victims because he suspected that they had an "immoral" influence on his partner and were prodding her to get into illicit trade.

A1 is a school dropout and had worked in fabrication units in Peenya before moving to Bommasandra, Mysuru and later to Dobbaspete. In each of these cases, after allegedly strangling his victims to death, he sold their jewellery and went for a vacation with his partner.

SC grants bail to Varavara Rao on medical grounds

ENS @ New Delhi

THE Supreme Court on Wednesday granted bail to poet and activist P Varavara Rao, an accused in the Bhima Koregaon case, on medical grounds. The National Investigation Agency opposed Rao's plea claiming that he is involved in "serious anti-national activities".

But a bench headed by Justice U U Lalit said the condition of Rao, who is at present out on interim medical bail, has not improved to such an extent that the bail can be withdrawn. It also observed that Rao is 82 and has spent around two-and-a-half-years in custody. It rejected the NIA's argument that Rao is not an "ordinary criminal" and in certain cases, age cannot be a factor if the offences are serious and affect the nation.

An extract from the mannual says, "This animal is sparsely distributed over a small portion of Vellamunda and Kottamangalam." "The Kottamangalam and Vellamunda form the landscape of Sathyamangalam," informed Hosmath. The text also mentions Colonel Davies, a British officer who happened to find the pelt of 'Felis jubata' (scientific name for cheetah). "He saw five good skins of Felis jubata among the pelts of leopard, tiger and other animals. They had come from Kothamangalam."

The journal also mentions another Britisher, Wedderburn, who also said that he has seen the skins of 'this hunting leopard' (cheetah) - called so in Cutcherry and one is in his possession - which he 'got' from Bolampatti. Sathyamangalam was part of erstwhile Mysuru Princely state. The cheetah went extinct in 1952 after the last one was shot dead in Madhya Pradesh.

Four Irular youth chase dreams in Chennai college

SUBASHINI VIJAYAKUMAR @ Chennai

IN a big leap of faith for a community that had remained on the margins for thousands of years, four Irular tribal students, including three girls who are children of rescued bonded labourers, have joined undergraduate courses at Madras Christian College this year. The community, traditionally involved in snake and rat catching and honey collection, is one of the six particularly vulnerable tribal groups in Tamil Nadu and is among the most backward in education and employment. The four students are Nandini, Ramya, and Priya, all aged 17 and Rajkumar is 21 years old.

Nandhini's father died when she was young and her mother Vijaya worked as a bonded labourer at a brick kiln in Tiruvallur until she was rescued in 2014. "I used to live in different hostels till my mother and I shifted to the Irular smart colony in Tiruvannamalai district three years ago. Though my mother was rescued from bonded labour in 2014, it took a long time for her to mingle with us again," said Nandhini, who joined BA Tamil this year. Ramya too has joined BA Tamil. Rajkumar is enrolled in BA History and Priya has chosen BA Social Work.

While Nandini and Priya want to become police officers, Rajkumar aspires to be an IAS officer. "Becoming an IAS officer is an uphill task for tribal people like us. But I want to aim high and achieve it," Rajkumar said. Ramya's mother, who worked as a bonded labourer at a rice mill in Chittoor in Andhra Pradesh, was rescued in 2012. Priya's mom and dad were also rescued from a rice mill in Tiruvallur in 2010. Nandhini and Rajkumar are from the smart colony for Irular tribals located at Meesanallur village in Thellar panchayat in Tiruvannamalai district. They will be the first graduates from the 134 families settled in the colony.

The Irular students at Madras Christian College in Chennai

Madras Christian College has given seats for seven tribal students, including these four, so far. "We give importance to merit but don't rely on it entirely. We use our discretion to provide opportunities to all communities. Opportunities are provided to particularly vulnerable tribal groups and first-generation graduates to make education inclusive. We are also planning to set up a tribal study centre and provide tribal specific pedagogy and curriculum to pull them into science courses as well," said Paul Wilson, principal of MCC.

BIHAR REALIGNMENT TRIGGERS BUZZ ON NITISH'S BIGGER GOAL

Bihar chief minister Nitish Kumar's turnaround may catapult him into becoming the face of opposition in the 2024 Lok Sabha election. As congratulations poured in from across the country for Nitish Kumar after he was sworn in for the record eighth time as the chief minister, opposition leaders did not fail to mention how the Bihar realignment would unite the opposition, and how a united opposition would now take on the BJP in its Hindi heartland bastion.

Nitish himself said those who won in 2014 should now worry about 2024. Analysts claim he has a much larger acceptability among opposition parties than, say, Mamata Banerjee or K Chandrashekar Rao, who have taken the lead to unite the opposition parties. Mamata has fought bitterly against the Congress and Left, which would play key roles in deciding the opposition face. Her recent attempt to create a non-Congress front did not go down well with opposition parties such as the Nationalist Congress Party, Shiv Sena and the Jharkhand Mukti Morcha, which are allied to the Congress. As for K Chandrashekar Rao, his acceptability beyond Telangana is yet to be tested. Nitish, on the other hand, already has the Congress and Left as allies in his new government.

His appeal stretches across the Hindi belt comprising Uttar Pradesh, Madhya Pradesh, Chhattisgarh, Rajasthan, Haryana, Bihar and Jharkhand. Some of these states, such as UP, MP, Chhattisgarh and Bihar, have a sizable population of Kurmis, a caste to which Nitish Kumar belongs. The BJP had swept these states in 2014 and 2019 Lok Sabha elections.

Kurmis are OBC and vote largely in favour of the BJP, except in Bihar where Nitish controls this chunk, and Chhattisgarh where the vote of this caste goes to Congress as chief minister Bhupesh Baghel is a Kurmi. Nitish's projection as the opposition's prime ministerial candidate will not only make a dent in the BJP's Kurmi vote bank but also has the potential to unite all the opposition parties.

TN PROVES ITS METTLE AS OLYMPIAD HOST

At the closing ceremony of the 44th Chess Olympiad on Tuesday, several dignitaries of the chess world pointed out that Tamil Nadu (and India) had hosted the event to great success with just four months' notice. The world's largest chess event was originally scheduled to be held in Russia, which had four years to prepare for the Olympiad, but after the country invaded Ukraine, FIDE had to look for a new host. When the All India Chess Federation threw its hat in the ring, the Tamil Nadu government expressed keen interest to host the event, if India was picked.

TN, after all, has a long history with the sport. Chief Minister MK Stalin said that 36% of India's grandmasters hail from the State. Still, hosting the event was a gamble. The Olympiad is possibly the largest international sporting event hosted in the State since the South Asian Games were held in Chennai in 1995. Over 2,000 players from more than 180 countries would be participating in the event, held at Mamallapuram. In the end, the State government acquitted itself. Barring testy moments with the media, following an accreditation process that went haywire, the event went by with nary a hiccup, garnering praise from players and administrators from other countries. Further by conducting the event outside Chennai, at picturesque Mamallapuram, it ensured that local residents had plenty to celebrate but little to complain about in terms of traffic or other disruptions.

The State government has also leveraged the opportunity to offer itself as a suitable venue for other international sporting events, that will no doubt boost the local economy and burnish its reputation in the sporting world. The success is also a boost to the DMK government, facing a thornier second year in power, coming as it does after a massive riot in Kallakurichi. The party must not rest on its laurels, however, and instead must right the wrongs and perceived complacency that has crept into administration to pursue its agenda of social justice in letter and spirit.

The difference between transactional management and transformational leadership is about how change is managed. However, the two approaches can overlap

THE HOLISTIC TRANSFORMATION LEADERSHIP

R GOPALAKRISHNAN

Author and business commentator

SOUMYADIP SINHA

BUILDING BUSINESSES

Is holistic transformation leadership another jawbreaker of mumbo-jumbo? No, in the context of this article. It is akin to holistic life.

With the deep impact of technology on productivity and ways of working, executives rely on rationality in change management, maybe to a fault. As machine learning and artificial intelligence emerge, this trend of left-braininess could gather pace. It is great for operational managers for whom efficiency and delivery of results are key. MBA students, in fact, are educated on transactional change, and during the first half of their careers, are rewarded for their rationality.

Then their career meets a crossroad. One straight path continues to demand dominantly rational management, while the other appears like a steep, winding gradient. This second path demands empathetic leadership in addition to rational decision-making.

The difference between transactional management and transformational leadership is about how change is managed. In transactional, the manager is reacting with a near-term horizon, persuading people to follow action plans. Transformational leadership, on the other hand, requires adaptive responses, concerning individuals and social systems. In this mode, followers feel empowered and engaged, they feel a sense of self-identity, and take ownership for their results. This is the big difference.

The two approaches overlap. They deploy rationality and empathy in different proportions: transactional management requires dominantly rational skills, while transformational leadership requires dominantly empathy skills. Both skill sets are relevant.

A holistic leadership approach is akin to a systems-approach—the impact of one decision on every other part of the moving system is contemplated in advance. Rather than describe the differences, I illustrate through the exceptional and noteworthy example of rationalisation in TISCO in the early 1990s when Dr Jamshed Irani led Tata Steel. In this short article, I do not intend to analyse or comment on every aspect of the rather massive transformation, but to merely narrate what a 'holistic' approach looks like.

TISCO has had a long history of harmonious and trusting industrial relations. In the late 1980s, Dr Irani recalled a conversation with Mr J R D Tata outside the Jamshedpur steelworks. J R D bemoaned the fact that chief engineer, Mr Firoze Tarapore, had "submitted as many modernisations for the company as the years in his life". But where was TISCO to get the funds? Irani doggedly responded that unless TISCO was modernised urgently, leaders would soon be standing at the factory gate, selling tickets to visit a steel museum. It was a grim, but forthright assessment of the future.

Then the environment changed. Liberalisation was announced by the government. It was an "aha" moment for Dr Jamshed Irani and his leadership team.

Very quickly, TISCO's efficiency was benchmarked by comparing it with top global companies. A system of Total Business Excellence was adopted to rapidly improve wherever TISCO was lagging. The old plans were updated with contemporary ideas of technology and productivity, thus producing a fresh modernisation plan. Huge funds were required, so funding ideas too were developed. In a sense, these were all in the realm of the rational—technology, funding, productivity, sustainability, and so on.

> TISCO has had a long history of harmonious and trusting industrial relations. In the late 1980s, Dr Irani recalls a conversation with Mr J R D Tata outside the Jamshedpur steelworks. J R D bemoaned the fact that chief engineer, Mr Firoze Tarapore, had "submitted as many modernisations for the company as the years in his life". But where was TISCO to get the funds?

Taking a systems-approach, the leadership realised that their grandiose plans required rationalising the manpower from 80,000 to 40,000; simultaneously, the employee profile had to transform to younger, differently skilled manpower. In contemporary times, this same challenge is faced by the defence forces for which they devised the Agnipath scheme.

The fact is that an intimate cause-and-effect exists between technically sound ideas on the one hand and individuals and social systems on the other. TISCO would have to adapt to unprecedented manpower reduction in Jamshedpur, perhaps even unparalleled anywhere in any Indian company at that time—halving the manpower in what was essentially a company township!

A deeply thought-out set of schemes were devised by operational and human resources leaders to implement this manpower rationalisation. The CEO, leadership team, and the board chairman spent hours on discussion. The leadership did not regard it as a headcount reduction, but rather as an unavoidable and delicate surgery on the delicate body of the company. This triggered thinking about the employees with great empathy. How could the company achieve the result with the least pain—though pain and bloodletting could not be avoided? Employees were met in small groups and large groups, in the factory and in their community setting. Questions were answered with empathy, but also with firmness. For example, at one town-hall meeting, a senior employee questioned Dr Irani, "This company has a commitment to employ one son of each family. What happens to that?" Irani responded, "I understand your anguish; please appreciate that the issue at hand is not about employment for your son, it is about your own employment!"

A scheme was devised whereby employees above certain criteria of age and service received the full basic salary right up to their retirement age. Younger employees were given a lump sum and guided towards entrepreneurship. Counsellors were engaged to speak to distressed families, sparing no effort to do the surgery with the finest bedside manners of a doctor-patient relationship.

Finally, TISCO did modernise technologically and its productivity rivalled the best in the world within a few years. In addition, the company rationalised manpower from 80,000 to 40,000. No leader felt good about this surgery, but the patient, viz the company, was saved.

The example illustrates the distinction between transformational leadership and transactional management.

IMAGING HOLY COW AS MOTHER INDIA

CHANDRAN T V

Art critic & author. Teaches art history at the College of Fine Arts, Thiruvananthapuram

What was probably the religious or political ideology which determined the choice of a theme, narrative structure, style, and why certain images or themes were recurrent and popular in a particular time and space have to be addressed in an art historical enquiry.

Only by seeking explanations to these self-imposed questions can art history reinvigorate itself in order to look at ourselves in the present and the past as well with a critical eye. However, rethinking art and art history in these terms must acknowledge from the very outset the fact that "human culture is made up of signs, each of which stands for something other than itself, and the people inhabiting culture busy themselves making sense of those signs." (Mieke Bal and Norman Bryson). In this sense, to get into the socially constituted meaning of a work of art, it has to be placed in a context which weaves it into a text out of a sign-system.

This insight has recently remoulded the approach in the study of social sciences. Despite this, art history as an academic discipline in Indian universities is largely found to be fixated on the study of 'representation', enquiring into the style, iconography and patronage based on religious and textual sources. Its reluctance to shrug off its habitual practice, in short, shows its prolonged interest to continue with the notion of history and art that the nation had 'imagined' in the late 19th and early 20th centuries.

As a nationalist project, certain memorable episodes from history were selected to construct glorious cultural pasts. By the same token, it also either forgot or suppressed something 'bad' from its history. As a result, innumerable riots and rebellions were either entirely forgotten or brushed aside from the mainstream history to make it a "Wonder that was India" or "Incredible India".

Keeping pace with this sense of wonder and splendour, traditional art history remains disdainful towards popular visual culture of the past and therefore fails to offer an insight to look at ourselves surrounded by similar images which pervade our every quotidian space.

In this context, as a part of extending the central point of my last discussion Roaring lion of the nation (July 20), I would like to draw attention to a brilliant study by Christopher Pinney, The Nation (Un)Pictured? Chromolithography and 'Popular' Politics in India, 1878—1995, which, in some part, focuses on a series of posters of a 'Cow Mother'. These posters were endlessly reproduced and widely circulated across the subcontinent, particularly in north India in the late 19th century. He analyses them to show how a sense of nation was articulated through its visual strategy.

In the first instance, the poster looks innocent and harmless with an image of a holy cow. But it has certain encoded meanings to express through its imagery, which were apparently decoded in the backdrop of a series of violent anti-cow-slaughter agitations of the 1880s and 1890s, the prime cause of its production and circulation.

Covered with gods and rishis all over its body, the bovine is made sacred and identified as Cow Mother. In doing so, the cow becomes not only a sacred symbol, but also a sacred space—the Mother India. Its details make this sense explicit. Near the udders are seen a cluster of figures comprising the Hindus, a Sikh, a Parsi, a Christian, a European and a Muslim accepting milk from the milkman. It suggests an assumed equality and communal harmony.

Poster representing the Cow Mother. Printed probably at Ravivarma Lithographic Press, Lonavla near Pune

However, the Muslim is shown in a double role. Breaking the peaceful and harmonious moment of the sacred land, a butcher is shown with a drawn sword heading towards the Cow Mother. With dark skin, dishevelled long hair and a full-teethed open mouth, this demonic figure is meant to be identified with a meat-eating Muslim. This interplay of meaning is further made explicit through a caption near its head: "he manusyaho, kaliyugi mamsahari jivomko dekho" (Oh! mankind, look at the meat-eating souls of the kaliyug).

There are innumerable records showing that its viewers did not miss the point. A revealing one is a memo from 1893 prepared by the Indian Viceroy Lord Lansdowne (1888–1893). As a response to the query of the Earl of Kimberly about the ever-increasing communal riots, Lord Lansdowne, as quoted by Christopher Pinney, observes:

"[wandering ascetics] have distributed throughout the country a picture of the cow, of a kind calculated to appeal strongly to the religious sentiment of the people.

One of them, for instance, depicts a cow in the act of being slaughtered by three Muhammadan butchers, and is headed 'the present state'. Another exhibits a cow, in every part of whose body groups of Hindu deities and holy persons are shown, being assailed by a monster with a drawn sword entitled the 'Kali Yug' but which has been largely understood as typifying the Muhammadan community."

Lansdowne also notes that the Muslims were agitated and felt insulted because they heard of a picture in circulation representing a Muslim with a drawn sword butchering a cow.

Posters and calendars with the motif of a cow as a sacred symbol of a nourishing Mother and Mother India had continuously been reimagined and reproduced in subsequent periods at the length and breadth of the country in ever-expanding rhythm.

As the religious sentiments and the communal politics involved in it had gained wider acceptance in the 20th century, it continued to proliferate uninterruptedly till the 1970s. Since the 1980s, too, it began to pervade our visual culture but in new incarnations altogether. I will return to it in my next turn.

A shocker for BJP

This is with reference to Chameleon Nitish does it again (August 10). In an attempt to retain his position as Bihar chief minister, Nitish Kumar has exited his alliance with the BJP and joined the Mahagathbandhan. The BJP is suddenly in a fix even though it has formed a government in Maharashtra after toppling the Sena government. All this just goes to show that there are no permanent friends or foes in politics—coalitions, defections and chameleons—are all a part and parcel of the big game.

M Y Shariff, Chennai

Nitish defects

After he decided to exit his alliance with the BJP to join the Congress, RJD and the Left, Nitish appears to have no principles at all. By defecting, he may grab power, but he has also betrayed voters in the process. This is not just limited to him. In the recent past, many leaders have chosen the path of defection. This defeats the purpose of democracy.

Shreeram Paranjpe, Bengaluru

All the best to MGB

Nitish Kumar's change of allegiance can be seen both positively and negatively. While from the BJP's point of view it could be opportunistic, from the JD(U)'s side it could be seen as coming home to one's roots. Nitish Kumar would have learnt the hard way that unity is strength and his new avatar could create a big upheaval in Bihar politics if youngsters like Tejashwi and the rest give him enough legroom to function. It is a known fact that in the world of politics, there are no fixed allegiances. All the best to a new alliance—hopefully, this new formation will roll out decisions which are in the best interests of the people.

Describing Nitish

I like how apt the headline 'Chameleon Nitish does it again' is. Nitish did all this just because he wanted to stay on the throne and retain his power. The defection is shameful.

India's defence

Apropos of India beyond 75: Revamping our security needs (August 10). It makes a sound analysis of the country's security. I agree that the main focus should be to have a politically stable Centre. One can only hope that political leaders keep their ideological differences aside and unite for the common goal of keeping the nation secure.

TN must be sensitive

Thirteen shutters of Mullaperiyar Dam have been raised, but there is a lot of worry in Kerala that Tamil Nadu may release more water. That would be very insensitive to people. The catchment area has been receiving a lot of rainfall for the past few days. Immediate opening of shutters has to be avoided so that people downstream do not suffer.

Bihar saga bares rifts in federalism

CM Nitish Kumar skipped last week's Niti Aayog meeting, hinting at Centre versus state clash

PREETHA NAIR @New Delhi

EVEN before the Bihar saga unfolded, Bihar Chief Minister Nitish Kumar's conspicuous absence from the seventh council meeting of the Niti Aayog last week chaired by PM Modi has sent a clear signal that all is not well between the two.

While Prime Minister Modi hailed co-operative federalism in the country during the Council meeting, states like Telangana and Bihar stayed away, accusing the Centre of bulldozing the federal structure of the country. The meeting also saw many state heads griping about GST compensations, implementation of NEP and the Centre's interference in their affairs, among a host of other issues.

The contestation between the states and the Centre over federal rights is nothing new, as many opposition states feel that the last eight years of the BJP have seen increasing centralization of power, though the party swears by spirit of cooperative federalism.

Speaking to TNIE, Prof Balveer Arora, Chairman, Centre for Multilevel Federalism (CMF), said there was a dialogue deficit between the Centre and the states, which is essential for cooperative federalism. "The Niti Aayog meeting showed that dialogue between the Centre and the states is not frequent and open enough. There is a tendency to project cooperative federalism as success when states are made to toe the Central policy line," says Arora.

However, Amitabh Kant, former CEO of Niti Aayog, told TNIE that the Aayog has always acted as a bridge between the Central and state governments, bringing both together to address implementation issues. "Niti Aayog promoted competitive federalism, where we ranked states through a variety of indices. These indices ranged from SDGs, export preparedness, innovation, health, school education, water, and energy. We also highlighted state best practices, enabling states to learn from one another," he said.

Economist Pronab Sen says that after the scrapping of the Planning Commission, there is no clarity on how funds for various schemes are allocated to states.

STRAINS IN CENTRE-STATE RELATIONS

Some experts argue that cooperative federalism is slowly being replaced by coercive federalism by increasing the Centre's dominance in policymaking over the states. Some of the instances are mentioned below:

FINANCE In terms of fiscal federalism, finance has always been a debatable topic. The 14th Finance Commission stating the Rashtriya Suraksha Nidhi should not be from the Consolidated Fund of India but rather by the states under the subject of security and defense has shown the opposing idea of the Centre towards cooperative federalism. Similarly, the neutralisation of the namesake State tax revenues increased from 32% to 42%, by cutting the share of Centre in Centre-sponsored schemes.

DEMONETISATION Even the decision of the demonetisation was not taken with state governments consideration due to which the states suffered a severe setback.

TAXES And to top it all was the introduction of the 101st Amendment, wherein on one hand the power of states to levy indirect taxes (like octroi, entry tax, luxury, and entertainment taxes, etc) was taken away and on the other, the Centre was given the dominant position in the GST council decision-making process.

STATE EMERGENCY Under coercive political federalism, one of the recent instances we find was in the Maharashtra state election. A state emergency was imposed an hour before the deadline following its revocation an hour before a minority government was formed by the Governor despite having an adequate alliance.

TRADING OF MLAs An unfortunate occurrence lies in the trading of MLAs in the states of MP, Karnataka, and now in Rajasthan. Further, the concept of 'One Nation One Election' which has the tendency of overshadowing the issues of the states also seems as a centralising idea in case the same political party comes into power in both the Centre and a majority of the States.

ADMINISTRATIVE FEDERALISM Finally, we see the deep-rooted coercive federalism spread even in the administrative federalism wherein the complaints filed by the citizens in Swachh Bharat Abhiyaan application get registered directly under the cell which is in control of the Union Ministry of Housing and Urban affairs.

ARTICLE 370 REVOCATION In matters of special status to Jammu & Kashmir which was taken away while under the President's rule and Article 370 being rendered ineffective also shows us the deviation from cooperative federalism.

NITI AAYOG Among other instances, we find Niti Aayog as mentioned earlier, which has replaced the Planning Commission and majorly caters to the Centre's whims and fancies.

GOVERNOR"S APPOINTMENT Even so far the office of Governor is concerned, states get no role in the appointment and transfer of governors.

I am leaving office satisfied, says outgoing V-P Venkaiah

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE

AS Vice President M Venkaiah Naidu officially signs off Thursday, he has has already made up his mind about what lies next — to complete unfinished journey in the service of the nation and interacting with youths and farmers.

"I will be resuming from day after tomorrow my unfinished journey in the service of the nation," he said, adding while the country will celebrate independence day on Aug 15, he will be a free man Friday.

On a question if he will pen down his experiemces during his several decades of political career, Naidu said, he will see. Several Rajya Sabha MPs during his farewell, as he was Chairman, function in the house had requested him to write his autobiography.

"Tomorrow onwards I will be again on the move. As I said earlier, I don't follow that popular adage that — 'President or dissident otherwise resident'. I will keep interacting with people, as I enjoy all of that more. My focus would be youths and also the farmers, because they need greater focus and attention from government and the system," Naidu said. Naidu came to Delhi in 1993 as general secretary and rose to become BJP chief. He held several portfolios as rural development, urban development, Information and Broadcasting and Parliamentary Affairs, before being elevated as vice president in 2017.

He said that he has several invites from organisations.

"I told them that 10th onwards I will no longer be vice president but they said it has nothing to do with Vice President it is for Venkaiah Naidu," he added. He has been allotted the official bunglow at 1, Thyagaraja Marg, in Delhi. But Naidu is expected to spend most of his time in Hyderabad and Chennai.

At an official event in the Parliament House complex, he planted a sapling marking the completion of his five years term as Rajya Sabha chairman.The sapling planted is Sita Ashok, an evergreen tree valued for its ornamental fragrant flowers and medicinal values.

CENTRE OKAYS CORBEVAX AS PRECAUTION DOSE FOR ADULTS

KAVITA BAJELLI-DATT
@New Delhi

THE centre has approved Biological E's Corbevax as a precaution dose for those above 18 years who have been fully vaccinated with either Covishield or Covaxin, officials announced Wednesday.

"Corbevax will be available as a precaution dose after completion of six months or 26 weeks from administering the second dose of either Covaxin or Covishield vaccines for population above 18 years. This enables Corbevax as a heterologous Covid-19 vaccine for precaution dose administration in this age group," Union Health Secretary Rajesh Bhushan said in a letter to all the states and union territories.

This is the first time a booster dose different from the one used for primary vaccination against Covid has been allowed in India.

Bhushan said there would be no change in existing guidelines for homologous precaution dose administration of the Covaxin and Covishield vaccine.

"In addition to the existing homologous precaution dose, the option of a heterologous precaution dose with Corbevax would be available to all persons above 18 years of age," the letter issued on August 8 but issued on Wednesday, said.

The Union Health Ministry approved it based on the recommendations recently made by the Covid-19 Working Group of the National Technical Advisory Group on Immunisation (NTAGI).

Bhushan said that based on scientific evidence, global practices and the recommendations of domain knowledge experts, it has now been decided to redefine the precaution dose administration under the Covid-19 vaccination programme.

India's first indigenously developed RBD protein subunit vaccine Corbevax, manufactured by a Hyderabad-based firm, is currently being used to inoculate children in the age group of 12 to 14 years under the Covid-19 immunisation programme.

At present, the same Covid-19 vaccine which has been used for administration of first and second doses is being given as a precaution dose to all above 18 years.

All necessary changes regarding the administration of the precaution dose of the Corbevax vaccine to those who are eligible and due to the precaution dose have been made on the Co-WIN portal.

This provision would be live from August 12, Bhushan added.

SC clubs, transfers all FIRs against Nupur Sharma to Delhi Police

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE
@ New Delhi

THE Supreme Court Wednesday allowed clubbing and transfer of all FIRs lodged across the country against suspended BJP spokesperson Nupur Sharma to Delhi Police in connection with her remark on the Prophet made during a TV debate show.

If a fresh case is registered against her in any state in connection with the statement, will also be clubbed and transferred to Delhi Police, the court stated.

A bench of Justices Surya Kant and JB Pardiwala also extended the interim protection from any coercive action to Sharma till the probe is concluded by the Intelligence Fusion & Strategic Operations (IFSO) of the Delhi Police. It said IFSO shall be at liberty to take assistance from other police forces to take the case to a logical end.

"Since this Court has already taken cognisance of the serious threat to life and security of the petitioner (Sharma), we direct that all FIRs against Nupur Sharma be transferred and clubbed for the investigation to the Delhi Police. In particular facts and circumstances, we clarify and deem it appropriate that the investigation is carried out by Delhi police. The petitioner shall be at Liberty to pursue her rights and remedies by approaching Delhi High Court for quashing the current and future FIRs," the bench said.

The apex court allowed Sharma to move Delhi High Court for quashing of FIRs lodged over her remark and said all future FIRs would also be transferred to Delhi Police for investigation. Senior advocate Maninder Singh, appearing for Sharma, submitted that she was receiving summons from the West Bengal government despite the apex court order.

The apex court also refused the prayer of senior advocate Menaka Guruswamy, appearing for the West Bengal government, seeking an investigation by a court-appointed SIT. Guruswamy submitted the accused cannot be allowed to pick the jurisdiction and her statement has caused maximum damage in West Bengal.

Sharma's remark on the Prophet during a TV debate had triggered protests across the country and drew sharp reactions from many Gulf countries. The BJP subsequently suspended her from the party. On July 19, the apex court granted interim protection from arrest till August 10 to Sharma in connection with the FIRs filed against her.

It had also protected her from any coercive action in the FIRs/complaints which may be registered or entertained in the future about the May 26 telecast. On July 1, the same bench of the top court severely criticised Sharma for her controversial comments against the Prophet, saying her 'loose tongue' has 'set the entire country on fire' and that she is single-handedly responsible for what is happening in the country'.

Centre approves extending urban housing scheme until Dec 2024

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE
@New Delhi

THE Union Cabinet, chaired by Prime Minister Narendra Modi, on Wednesday approved the proposal of the Ministry of Housing and Urban Affairs for continuation of Pradhan Mantri Awas Yojana-Urban (PMAY-U) up to Dec. 31, 2024.

As per the existing arrangement, financial help is to be provided for the completion of already sanctioned 122.69 lakh houses till March 31 this year.

PMAY-U, launched in 2015, is one of the flagship programmes being implemented by the Centre to provide all-weather pucca houses to all eligible beneficiaries in urban areas through states, union territories and other nodal agencies. In 2017, the original projected demand was 100 lakh houses.

"Against this original projected demand, 102 lakh houses have been grounded/under construction. Further, out of these 62 lakh houses have been completed. Out of the total sanctioned 123 lakh houses, the proposals of 40 lakh houses were received late — during the last two years of the scheme — from the states or UTs which require another two years to complete them. Therefore, based on the requests from the States/UTs, Union Cabinet decided to extend the implementation period of PMAY-U," the government said in a statement.

Central assistance approved since 2015 is ₹2.03 lakh crore. The statement further stated that till March 31, the Central assistance of ₹1,18,020.46 crore has been released and ₹85,406 crore will be released as central assistance or subsidy till Dec. 31, 2024.

"The continuation of the scheme based on the request of states or UTs till Dec. 31, 2024 will help in completion of already sanctioned houses under BLC, AHP and ISSR verticals," said the statement.

The scheme covers the urban areas as per Census 2011 and towns notified subsequently including notified planning or development areas. While the Centre provides financial assistance, state governments or UT administrations implement the scheme including selection of beneficiaries.

India flays UNSC for being selective on terrorism

YESHI SELI @New Delhi

INDIA has criticised the UN Security Council for being selective in highlighting terrorism and have urged that there should be no double standards in dealing with terror.

"We need political will to defeat terrorism and not justification and glorification of terrorism. There should be no double standards in dealing with terrorists. We should refrain from labelling terrosim based on motivations as this will allow opportune forces to justify such acts," said India's permanent representative to the UN, Ruchira Kamboj. She was speaking after the UN Security Council briefing on "Threats to international peace and security caused by terrorists acts."

"An effective functioning of the Sanctions Committees requires them to become more transparent, accountable and objective. The practice of placing holds and blocks on listing requests without giving any justification must end," she said. "Double standards and continuing politicisation render the credibility of the sanctions regime at an all time low. Linkages between terrorism and organised crime need to be addressed. In India, we have had first time experience of crime syndicates venturing into terror and thereafter getting state hospitality in neighbouring country — such hypocrisy needs to be collectively called out," ambassador Kamboj added.

India also highlighted how it was been continuously targeted by terrorist forces and how the UNSC was selectively filtering those references.

"It is puzzling to us that the Secretary General's report chose not to take notice of the activities of the several proscribed groups in this region, especially those that have been repeatedly targeting India. Selective filtering of inputs from member states is uncalled for," she added.

She also said that she hoped that future inferations from the SG's report, inputs from all member states would be treated on an equal footing.

"The SG's report also outlines the fact that terrorist groups with linkages to ISIL and Al Qaeda are gaining strength in Africa, targeting women and children and UN peacekeepers. ISIL expansion has potential to spill over to other parts of the world as well," ambassador Kamboj added.

Earlier also, China, an all-weather friend of Islamabad, had placed holds and blocks on bids by India and its allies to list Pakistan-based terrorists.

35 ministers likely to find place in new Nitish cabinet

In a letter submitted to Governor Phagu Chauhan, JD-U chief had claimed support of 164 MLAs of seven parties and one Independent

RAMASHANKAR @ Patna

NEWLY sworn in Bihar Chief Minister Nitish Kumar on Wednesday chaired the first meeting of the cabinet, in which it was decided to convene the special session of Bihar assembly on Aug. 24 and 25 to prove the majority of the Grand Alliance (GA) government. On the first day of the session, a new Speaker of the assembly will be elected by the legislators of the seven-party alliance, which have given their support to Chief Minister Nitish Kumar to form the government.

A decision to convene the special session of the assembly was taken at the first meeting of the cabinet chaired by Nitish Kumar. Deputy chief minister and RJD leader Tejashwi Prasad Yadav attended the meeting of the cabinet as well. On Aug. 25, the Mahagathbandhan government will prove its majority on the floor of the House.

In a letter submitted to Governor Phagu Chauhan, Nitish had claimed the support of 164 MLAs of seven parties and one Independent legislator. After taking oath as the CM for the eighth time, he told the media on Tuesday that the expansion of the cabinet will take place after consultation with the members of GA.

However, the date and time of the expansion of the cabinet have not been revealed yet. Sources said there would be 35 ministers in the new cabinet, with RJD having the largest number of ministers. According to sources, the departments that were earlier with BJP ministers in the NDA government would be allotted to RJD ministers.

Meanwhile, a no confidence motion will be moved against incumbent Speaker Vijay Kumar Sinha, who didn't resign from the post even after the NDA government was dissolved by Chief Minister Nitish Kumar. The discussion on the no confidence motion against Sinha will also be held during the special session.

On Aug. 9, CPI-ML legislator Mehboob Alam wrote a letter to the secretary of Bihar Vidhan Sabha, demanding the removal of Sinha from the Speaker's post under sub-rule 10 of Bihar Assembly Conduct Rule.

Meanwhile, security around JD-U office on Bir Chand Patel Marg in Patna has been beefed up. Additional police forces have been deployed outside the office of the party, which broke its alliance with the NDA and joined hands with the Mahagathbandhan to form the new government.

NITISH KUMAR

Changing the course, again

In his decades long career, Nitish Kumar has been a steady force in Bihar's politics, and almost shows what it means when people say, 'change is the only constant'. And not for no reason is he called in jest as 'palti putra'. Nitish, 71, began his political journey from Samajwadi Yuv Jan Sabha but took centre stage during the 1974 movement led by JP Narayan. After two losses, he won Narnaut assembly seat in 1985. He later became a Lok Sabha member from Barh, and served as minister in Vajpayee's government. After parting ways from Janata Dal, he joined Samata Party. Then he formed Janata Dal-United. In 2000, Nitish became the CM for the first time but quit after six days due to lack of majority. In 2005, he became the CM again when NDA came to power. In 2013, he split with NDA and fought 2014 LS poll on his own, getting two seats. He quit as CM and propped Jitan Ram Manjhi to the post. In 2015, he fought the polls with Grand Alliance, only to leave in 2017. He then fought LS and assembly polls with NDA. The ties were again broken by him on Monday.

TEJASHWI YADAV

Son shines bright, for now

For his family at least, Tejashwi Prasad Yadav is living up to his name. The 33-year-old son of former chief ministers Lalu Prasad and Rabri Devi, Tejashwi made his debut in electoral politics in 2015 and became a member of Bihar assembly from Raghopur, which was earlier represented by his father and mother. In 2017, Tejashwi's name figured in a money laundering case, relating to illegal land transactions that allegedly took place during Lalu's tenure as the railways minister in 2004, when the scion himself was in his teens. He became the leader of opposition after Nitish walked out of Grand Alliance camp in 2017. Tejashwi campaigned rigorously for his party, RJD, in the 2020 assembly election in the absence of his father, and RJD emerged as the single largest party. However, his bonhomie with Nitish was noticed at Iftar parties earlier this year. As the year progressed, JD-U and RJD came closer on several issues like caste-based census.

Drugs case: HC grants bail to SAD leader Majithia

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE @Chandigarh

THE Punjab and Haryana High Court on Wednesday granted regular bail to senior Shiromani Akali Dal (SAD) leader and former cabinet minister Bikram Singh Majithia in a drugs case. He will be out of Patiala Central Jail after five-and-a-half months.

A division bench of justices MS Ramachandra Rao and Sureshwar Thakur gave the decision on the bail plea of Majithia. The division bench had earlier reserved its order on July 29. Majithia had approached the high court on May 23, seeking bail in the case registered against him under various sections of the Narcotic Drugs and Psychotropic Substances Act in December 2021.

The bench stated that there is no material placed on record showing possession, transportation, storing by or recovery of any contraband from the petitioner. All recoveries in the concluded trials had been effected from specific individuals and the petitioner was not shown to have any role in that regard.

The state is still trying to get details from various financial institutions in India and abroad and did not appear to have made much headway, though the case was registered almost eight months back, the court said. The bench added, "We are of the opinion that continued detention of the petitioner, which started on February 24, is not warranted and he is entitled to be released on bail."

Majithia, who is the brother-in-law of SAD president Sukhbir Singh Badal and brother of former Union minister and current MP from Bathinda, Harsimrat Kaur Badal, had contended that the then Congress government in the state had misused its power for wreaking vengeance against its political opponents and the petitioner was such a target.

Shinde, BJP yet to finalise portfolios as differences crop up

SUDHIR SURYAWANSHI @ Mumbai

A day after CM Eknath Shinde expanded his cabinet by inducting 18 more ministers, differences between the ruling Shiv Sena faction and the BJP have cropped up over distributions of key ministries.

The new ministers are yet to get their portfolios. Deputy CM Devendra Fadnavis sought to paper over the uncertainty. "The media should stop speculating about it," he said, adding the portfolio distribution was underway.

Normal practice is that once the ministers are sworn in, the CM allocates the portfolios to his ministers. Sources said the two sides are engaged in hard negotiation.

"Shinde has demanded the home portfolio while the BJP is reluctant to part with it. It wants to keep both the key portfolios — finance and home. The Deputy CM wants the home portfolio, which Shinde insists should remain with him. He also wants the urban development ministry," said a sourceperson close to the CM.

The source said Shinde was also keen on getting two-third ministries for his group in the government. "The BJP is not ready for it. BJP appears to agree on an equal portfolio sharing. At the moment, none wants to concede ground. Shinde's objective is to accommodate as many MLAs from his factions in his ministry as possible so that he can pacify the disgruntled Sena MLAs," said the source.

Shinde had called a cabinet meeting on Wednesday. All the newly sworn in ministers attended the cabinet meeting. While the meeting was on, the CM asked officers from departments present in the meeting to leave the hall. The CM asked the new ministers not to make statements in the media and create controversy.

Meanwhile, Independent MLA Bachu Kadu, who is a part of the Shinde-led faction, has said he is unhappy with the new government for not inducting him as a minister. He said he had met the chief minister and expressed his displeasure.

Hit by lumpy disease, milk output falls in Punjab

HARPREET BAJWA @ Chandigarh

THE outbreak of the lumpy skin disease in cattle has resulted in a fall in milk production in Punjab by 15-20%. Around 500 cattle have died due to the disease in the state in a month and about 27,000, mostly cows, have been infected.

Jalandhar, Moga, Muktsar, Barnala, Bathinda and Faridkot districts have reported the most number of cases.

The state produces 6.7 per cent of the country's milk production and has a per capita availability of 1,181 grams of milk per day, the highest in the country. The cost of production has now shot up, resulting in dairy farmers facing a double blow.

A senior official of the government-owned Milkfed said the milk production has fallen, but the procurement was the same. "It may be affected in the coming days," he said.

Punjab Animal Husbandry, Fisheries and Dairy Development Minister Laljit Singh Bhullar said over 50,000 cattle have been administered the vaccine against the disease free of cost in the state. Over 2.33 lakh doses of the vaccine have reached the state in two phases.

President of Progressive Dairy Farmers Association Daljit Singh says the average daily milk production in the state is down by 15-20 per cent. "The death rate of animals is more than 4 per cent. Milk production will remain low in the next two-three years, as most of the animals affected by the disease will not reproduce," he said.

For instance, an animal that gives 25-litre milk is now giving only 5 litres. It will take time before the animal returns to its normal capacity," said Daljit Singh.

"The prices of milk have not increased for four years. During the Covid peak, the prices were slashed. In a year, the rates of feed and fodder have increased by 60 per cent, raising the production cost. Farmers who have taken loans from banks have not been able to clear their dues. Many dairy farmers are now leaving the trade," he said.

There are around 7,000 commercial dairy farms run by progressive dairy farmers across the state with each farm having animals ranging between 20 and 500. Besides, there are thousands of farmers who have at least five milch animals, said Singh.

Commercial dairy farming contributes 25 per cent to the total milk produced in the state. Around 1 crore litres of milk is sold daily in the state. Of this, at least 60 lakh litres is sold in the organised sector, comprising dairy cooperatives such as government-owned Milkfed (Verka) and other private dairy companies. The rest goes to the unorganised sectors such as milk vendors and sweets shops.

Women over 60 to get free bus rides in UP

NAMITA BAJPAI @ Lucknow

THE Uttar Pradesh government has decided to make bus travel free for women aged above 60 years of. Chief Minister Yogi Adityanath announced the decision while addressing an event organised here to flag off 150 new diesel buses of the Uttar Pradesh State Road Transport Corporation (UPSRTC) on Wednesday.

Providing free bus travel to senior women citizens was one of the promises made by the BJP in its manifesto ahead of 2022 Assembly elections.

Yogi also announced free bus rides for every woman for 48 hours in the state on the occasion of Raksha Bandhan. He said women can travel for free in government buses from Aug. 10 (midnight) to Aug. 12 (midnight).

Later taking to the Twitter, the CM posted: "On the occasion of Raksha Bandhan in Uttar Pradesh, all mothers, sisters and daughters will be provided free travel facility for the next 48 hours in government buses from 12 midnight today (August 10) to midnight of August 12."

"The service will help the sisters and mothers to travel in a safe environment to reach their destination to celebrate Raksha Bandhan."

Stating that if airports can be built with "world-class" facilities, why can't bus stations have similar amenities, he called for the need of equipping them with dormitories, restaurants and clean toilets.

He remembered how the buses of the transport department carried migrant workers returning from different parts of the country to their destination during the pandemic. "It was the largest exercise to ferry passengers for free after the Kumbh Mela of 2019," he added.

He stressed on the need to phase out old buses in order to improve the travel experience of the passengers.

Expressing concern over the rising rate of accidents, Yogi also asked the transport department to ensure a yearly health report of the drivers. "The biggest concern is deaths caused in road mishaps. I'm saddened to say that the number of deaths in road accidents is over 20,000 a year. We need to take measures to reduce it," he said.

He asked the transport minister to link state transport corporation workshops with ITIs where youth can be skilled through training.

Partha conduct a shame, says Bengal minister

PRANAB MONDAL @ Kolkata

A West Bengal minister on Wednesday called the conduct of his former colleague Partha Chatterjee, arrested by the ED in an alleged school recruitment scam, as shameful. He said the ruling TMC would not tolerate such people.

Hakim's statement came in the backdrop of the Calcutta High Court's direction to the ED to become a party in a PIL about the assets and property details of 19 top TMC leaders, including seven ministers.

Hitting out at opposition, Hakim said the leaders and former ministers of Left Front's regime and Congress were also mentioned in a list under the HC scanner.

"What Chatterjee did was a shame. Our party will not tolerate it. I cannot recognise this Chatterjee whom I knew. This doesn't prove that everyone in the TMC is a thief," said Hakim in a press conference with four ministers beside him.

Hakim alleged the opposition was trying to defame the TMC with a narrative that everyone in the party was corrupt.

Meanwhile, the CBI, probing the recruitment scam in schools through the School Service Commission (SSC), on Wednesday arrested two former officials of the SSC. The agency said the two were arrested for suppressing facts and misleading investigators. The accused — former convenor of an advisory committee of the SSC Santiprasad Sinha and former chairman of the commission Ashok Saha — allegedly had recommended names of many candidates and ensured job as group C and group D staff in schools for them, ignoring the deserving candidates.

Contention over hoisting Nishan Sahib

Punjab CM Bhagwant Mann has hit out at Sangrur MP Simranjit Singh Mann on his call to hoist the Nishan Sahib (religious flag) and not tricolour from Aug. 13 to 15. However, Congress MLA Sukhpal Singh Khaira has on social media shared a video of Punjab Transport Minister Laljit Singh Bhullar where he is seen with late actor Deep Sidhu at Red Fort during farmers' rally on Jan. 26 last year. "Dear @ArvindKejriwal & @BhagwantMann ji plz clarify if your transport minister @Laljitbhullar is part of hoisting Kesri Nishan Sahib on Red Fort along with Deep Sidhu? If yes how does our CM call them anti national & keep him minister in his cabinet? I am subject to correction!," he tweeted.

Stop giving extensions to IAS officers, says MP

BJP MP from Hisar Brijendra Singh – who is himself a former IAS officer – last week questioned the state government giving extension in service to IAS officers. Singh who spoke in the Lok Sabha said that there is shortage of officers taken by the governments was fallacious. He said the Union government should curb the practice of giving extensions to IAS officers as it leads to demoralisation of younger officers. He cited an example from Haryana, where he had worked as an IAS officer and gave the example that the state government wanted to get a two-year extension in service for three IAS officers Rajeev Arora and Devender Singh (retired in July) and P K Das (retiring in August) citing shortage of officers but could not do so.

Mann's photos on govt jute bags

Punjab Chief Minister Bhagwant Mann recently unveiled jute bags prepared by the Punjab Pollution Control Board which will replace plastic bags at the 72nd Van Mahostav at Dhuri. The CM was accompanied by state Environment Minister Meet Hayer. The jute bags have photos of both of them. Ironically, when Mann was in the opposition as the MLA from Sangrur, he used to hit out at the then chief minister, Parkash Singh Badal, for using his photos on cycles, ambulances and other paraphernalia in the government-run flagship schemes. Now, the chief minister, who heads the AAP-led government, seems to have conveniently forgotten those days.

Russia's rocket attacks near nuclear plant kills 13: Ukraine

KYIV

UKRAINE on Wednesday accused Russia of rocket strikes that killed 13 civilians in areas near a Russian-held power plant, where renewed fighting has raised fears of a nuclear disaster.

The overnight strikes in the Dnipropetrovsk region in central Ukraine also injured 11 people, with five reported to be in a serious condition.

"It was a terrible night, regional governor Valentin Reznichenko wrote on Telegram, urging residents to shelter when they hear air raid sirens."I am asking and begging you... Don't let the Russians kill you," he wrote, adding that Russia had fired a total of 80 rockets at the area.

Most of the casualties were in the town of Marganets, just across the Dnieper River from the Zaporizhzhia nuclear power plant, Europe's biggest.

Regional council head Mykola Lukashuk said the strikes had hit a local power line, leaving thousands of people without electricity. Ukraine and Russia have accused each other of recent shelling around the plant itself. Ukraine says Russia has stationed hundreds of troops and stored ammunition at the plant. The tensions have brought back memories of the 1986 Chernobyl nuclear disaster in then Soviet Ukraine, which killed hundreds of people and spread radioactive contamination over much of Europe.

The plant was captured by Russian troops on March 4 after a battle with Ukrainian forces. The strikes came a day after major blasts at the Saki airfield, a key military base on the Russian-annexed Crimea peninsula. Dramatic amateur footage on social media appeared to show panicked holidaymakers fleeing a Crimean beach with young children, as ballooning clouds of grey smoke rose over the horizon.

Russia annexed Crimea in 2014 and has used the region as a staging ground for its attacks, but it has rarely been a target for Ukrainian forces.

Moscow insisted that the explosions were caused by detonating ammunition rather than Ukrainian fire.

MOSCOW TRYING TO CONNECT N-PLANT TO CRIMEAN GRID?

Kyiv: Russian forces occupying the Zaporizhzhia nuclear plant in southeast Ukraine are preparing connect to Crimea, annexed by Moscow in 2014, and are damaging it by reorienting its electricity production, Ukrainian operator Energoatom warned Tuesday. It is the largest nuclear power plant in Europe and was occupied by Russia early in its invasion. Kyiv and Moscow blamed each other for attacks on the plant last week. "The Russian military present at the Zaporizhzhia nuclear power plant are implementing the program of (Russian operator) Rosatom aimed at connecting the plant to the Crimean electricity grid," Energoatom president Petro Kotin told Ukrainian television. "To do this, you must first damage the power lines of the plant connected to the Ukrainian energy system. From August 7 to 9, the Russians have already damaged three power lines. At the moment, the plant is operating with only one production line, which is an extremely dangerous way of working," he added. "When the last production line is disconnected, the plant will be powered by generators running on diesel. Everything will then depend on their reliability and fuel stocks," Kotin warned. Ukrainian President Volodymyr Zelensky on Monday raised the spectre of nuclear disaster after strikes on the plant. And UN Secretary-General Antonio Guterres warned that any attack on a nuclear plant would be "suicidal". Recent fighting around the plant has prompted the UN nuclear watchdog International Atomic Energy Agency (IAEA) to warn of the "very real risk of a nuclear disaster".

China drops pledge to not station troops in Taiwan

LONG-STANDING PROMISE TO AVOID BASING ARMED FORCES OR ADMINISTRATIVE STAFF IN THE ISLAND AFTER 'REUNIFICATION' MISSING IN LATEST POLICY DOCUMENT

BEIJING

AFTER days of keeping the world on edge with its aggressive military exercises around Taiwan, China has withdrawn a promise not to send troops or administrators to the island if it takes control of it.

In two previous white papers on Taiwan, issued in 1993 and 2000 respectively, China promised to not send troops or administrative personnel to be based in Taiwan after seizing the island. This meant Taiwan could enjoy some autonomy even if Beijing takes it.

China's Taiwan Affairs Office on Wednesday issued a white paper laying out how it intends to claim the island through a range of economic incentives and military pressure. It contains no mention of the pledge not to send troops or administrators.

Beijing also vowed zero tolerance for "separatist activities" in Taiwan and reaffirmed that it would take the self-ruled island by force if necessary.

"We are ready to create vast space for peaceful reunification, but we will leave no room for separatist activities in any form," said the paper.

China will "not renounce the use of force, and we reserve the option of taking all necessary measures". It added, however: "We will only be forced to take drastic measures to respond to the provocation of separatist elements or external forces should they ever cross our red lines."

The release of the white paper came on the same day that a top Taiwan opposition politician flew to China for meetings with Taiwanese businesspeople, prompting condemnation from Taipei which had called on him to cancel the trip.

Andrew Hsia, deputy chairman of the Beijing-friendly Kuomintang party, travelled to China with a delegation in an unofficial capacity and was not scheduled to visit the capital.

He will quarantine for 10 days and return to Taiwan on August 27, the party said in a statement. The Chinese white paper promised Taiwan economic prosperity as well as "greater security and dignity" after "reunification".

But that offer comes in the shadow of the biggest military exercises China has ever conducted around the island, including training for a blockade. The drills have raised fears that China's Communist leadership could be preparing for an invasion.

Meanwhile, China on Wednesday announced that it has "successfully completed" its week-long exercises, which were initially expected to conclude on Sunday. AFP

Iranian special force operative charged in plot to kill Bolton

WASHINGTON

An Iranian operative has been charged in a plot to murder former Trump administration national security adviser John Bolton in presumed retaliation for a US airstrike that killed the country's most powerful general, offering hundreds of thousands of dollars to 'eliminate' him, the Justice Department said Wednesday.

Shahram Poursafi, identified by US officials as a member of Iran's Revolutionary Guard, is currently wanted by the FBI on charges related to the murder-for-hire plot.

Prosecutors say the scheme started more than a year after Qassem Soleimani, the head of Iran's elite Revolutionary Guard force and an architect of Tehran's proxy wars in West Asia, was killed in a targeted airstrike at Baghdad's international airport in January 2020. AP

US inflation eases to 8.5% in July, down from June's 40-yr high of 9.1%

WASHINGTON

US inflation eased slightly in July, according to official data on Wednesday, potentially taking pressure off the Federal Reserve to hike interest rates sharply while bringing a much-needed boost to President Joe Biden just months before crucial midterm elections.

With energy costs dropping in recent weeks, the consumer price index dipped to an annual rate of 8.5 per cent last month, the Labor Department reported, lower than markets were projecting.

Fueled by aggressive consumer spending of pandemic savings, global supply chain snarls, domestic worker shortages and Russia's war on Ukraine, inflation soared 9.1 per cent on-year in June, the highest in 40 years.

But the CPI was unchanged compared to June, a dramatic shift from the big increase in the prior month and defying expectations of a modest rise. "Today we received news that our economy had zero percent inflation in the month of July. Zero percent," Biden said at a White House event. "We are seeing signs that inflation may be beginning to moderate," he said, although he acknowledged that the global challenges remain and the economy could face "additional headwinds." When volatile food and energy prices are excluded from the calculation, the so-called core CPI rate rose just 0.3 per cent — the smallest in four months, according to the report. Soaring prices have continued to climb in the United States, squeezing family budgets and, by extension, Biden's popularity. Biden's opponents accuse him of precipitating inflation with a $1.9 trillion coronavirus relief package, enacted in March last year. But the president asserted his economic policies are working. AFP

WazirX, Binance talk to resolve issue

Lawyers of both exchanges are coordinating to sort out the ownership matter, say sources

UMA KANNAN @ Bengaluru

CRYPTO exchange WazirX and Changpeng Zhao-run Binance may soon resolve the ownership issue, according to sources aware of the development. Lawyers of both the exchanges are coordinating to sort out the issue, the sources added.

In November 2019, Binance announced that it had acquired WazirX and after the Enforcement Directorate (ED) conducted searches on one of the directors of Zanmai Labs, which owns WazirX, the largest crypto exchange Binance clarified that the 2019 acquisition was limited to an agreement to purchase certain assets and intellectual property of WazirX.

Binance did not purchase any equity in Zanmai Labs. In addition, WazirX (including the foregoing assets) continues to be operated and managed by Zanmai Labs, the crypto exchange said.

However, Nischal Shetty, founder of WazirX has been saying that WazirX was acquired by Binance and it owns the WazirX domain name. "Binance has root access to AWS (Amazon Web Services) servers," Shetty said.

Both the founders had a public spat on Twitter. Zhao said Binance does not have control on operations including user sign-up, KYC, trading and initiating withdrawals and WazirX's founding team controls that. "This was never transferred, despite our requests. The deal was never closed," he said.

Sources said both the founders never had direct communication since February. It is said that after acquisition talks in 2019, owners were supposed to continue for another two years. In February when WazirX enquired Binance about the acquisition, the latter said the parent entity is under restructuring.

Meanwhile, industry sources said that nine crypto currency exchanges including WazirX are being questioned regarding Chinese loan apps.

CAG raises concerns over Centre's ballooning debt, interest burden

ENS ECONOMIC BUREAU
@ New Delhi

THE Comptroller and Auditor General (CAG) of India has raised concern over increasing Central government debt as several indicators gauging sustainability of debt have turned unfavourable since 2015-16.

The CAG in a report tabled in parliament recently pointed out that some of the indicators like debt/GDP ratio, interest repayment to revenue receipts and interest rate spread became unfavourbale during the five year period from 2015-16 to 2019-20.

The Central government debt-to-GDP ratio in 2019-20 was 52.30% compared to 50.5% in 2015-16. The government was using 34% of the revenue earned in 2019-20 to pay interest on debt. This was 32% in 2015-16. The report also pointed out that although the average interest cost declined from 6.91% in FY16 to 6.61% FY20, the actual interest paid on debt consistently increased from ₹4.57 lakh crore in FY16 to ₹6.55 lakh crore in FY20 due to expanding overall debt.

Another area of concern pointed out by the CAG is that the interest spread, which is the difference between nominal GDP growth rate and average interest cost, turned negative in 2019-20. The CAG said the government must have in place a requisite plan to achieve the target set by FRBM act to cap the Central government debt-to-GDP ratio of 40%.

Meanwhile, data released by the department of economic affairs in the Finance Ministry showed interest paid on debt by the central government has increased to ₹8.05 lakh crore in FY22 from ₹6.80 lakh crore in FY21. The government spent almost 37% of its total revenue in FY22 on interest payments. The overall central government debt, as per provisional estimates, was ₹128 lakh crore, 54% of the GDP in FY22.

India's debt situatio is a cause of concern, feel experts.

"One of the major fallouts of high debt is interest payments, which could have been otherwise used for more productive purposes. It is estimated that the Indian government's interest payment is approx 3.1% of GDP against 2.5% in 2014-15," says Debopam Chaudhari, chief economist and head of research, TruBoard Partners.

Govt lifts price caps on air fare from August 31

ARSHAD KHAN @ New Delhi

IN a move that could possibly bring down air fares, the Union civil aviation ministry on Wednesday decided to remove the fare caps on domestic airlines with effect from August 31. "The decision has been taken after careful analysis of daily demand and prices of air turbine fuel. Stabilisation has set in and the sector is poised for growth," said Aviation Minister Jyotiraditya Scindia.

The government had imposed lower and upper limits on domestic airfares in May 2020, according to which airlines can't charge a passenger less than ₹2,900 (excluding GST) and more than ₹8,800 for domestic flights of less than 40 minutes. While upper caps were to protect passengers from being fleeced by greedy airlines, the lower limits were meant to protect the financially weaker carriers.

The government's decision could bring relief to flyers hit by high ticket prices, in the event of a price war now that the price restrictions have been lifted. However, it also means that if demand for a route is high, they will have to pay a premium.

"Airlines will be able to offer lower pricing on routes where flight loads are lower. But flight routes covering metros like Mumbai, Delhi, Bengaluru, etc could witness a surge in pricing," said Indiver Rastogi, president & group head (global business travel) at Thomas Cook (India) & SOTC.

Vedanta plans $2 billion capex to shore up oil, zinc, aluminium capacity

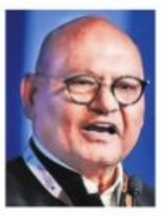
ENS ECONOMIC BUREAU
@ New Delhi

OIL-TO-METALS conglomerate Vedanta Ltd has planned an investment of around $2 billion in zinc, oil and gas and aluminium in FY23. The Vedanta chairman, Anil Agarwal, while speaking on the occasion of the company's Annual General Meetings (AGM) also said it is making a foray into the strategic area of manufacturing semiconductor fab and display fab.

"Not only are semiconductors in short supply globally, but India is also 100% import dependent," said Agarwal.

He further said that the domestic consumption of semiconductors is expected to cross $80 billion by 2026 and may touch $110 billion by 2030. Therefore, to set up an integrated semiconductor manufacturing facility in India, Vedanta had signed an MoU with Foxconn, one of the world's largest electronics manufacturers.

"I truly hope this is only the beginning of the creation of a Silicon Valley in India with hundreds of enterprises and hundreds of thousands of talented Indians producing value for the world," said Agarwal at the AGM.



The financial year FY22 had been the best year for Vedanta as the company clocked a record revenue of ₹131,192 crore and EBITDA (earnings before interest, taxes, depreciation, and amortization) of ₹45,319 crore, which was up 66% year-on-year and contributed more than ₹54,000 crore to the government exchequer.

"Our strong cash flows put the company in a great position for growth. Your company (Vedanta Limited) in FY22 has been the highest dividend paying company in India with a pay-out of ₹45 per share. Our Board has already announced interim dividends of ₹51 per equity share for the financial year 2023 amounting to ₹18,960 crore," said Agarwal.

Agarwal said the conglomerate has pledged $5 billion to reduce carbon emissions in operations to net zero by 2050 or sooner.

RAKESH KUMAR @ New Delhi

RURAL Electrification Corporation (REC), the government-owned power finance company, may soon become the 12th Maharatna central public sector enterprise (CPSE).

According to official sources, the meeting of the ministerial committee was held to consider the proposal for grant of Maharatna status to REC limited. "The meeting of the Inter-Ministerial Committee was held on 1st June, 2022 to consider the proposal of the Ministry of Power for grant of Maharatna status to REC limited. # DoT invites enterprises for private 5G network demand studies

ENS ECONOMIC BUREAU
@ New Delhi

THE Department of Telecommunications (DoT) on Wednesday invited enterprises to study the demand for direct assignment of spectrum to set up captive non-public networks (CNPN).

The enterprises, which have net worth more than ₹100 crore ,and are willing to set up captive non-public networks by obtaining spectrum directly from the Department of Telecommunications (DoT) are invited to participate in the exercise.

"Captive Non-Public Network can play a key role in developing industries by providing secure, ultra-reliable, low latency and high throughput communication using advanced technologies," said the government in a statement.

The government had issued the 'Guidelines for Captive Non-Public Network (CNPN) license' on 27 June 2022, with an aim to establish the legal framework for CNPNs. As per the guidelines, the enterprises seeking to establish CNPN may obtain spectrum on lease from Telecom Service Providers or directly from DoT. The guidelines also say that DoT will undertake demand studies for direct assignments of spectrum to enterprises setting up CNPNs. However, industry experts questioned the government's move and said why such a demand study is required at all. Broadband India Forum, a group which has members like TCS, Cisco, Google and Amazon, said there was no such demand study for the public networks of 4G, 3G or 2G earlier.

"We welcome the announcement but sincerely wonder why such a demand study is required at all. There are 794 such private networks in the rest of the world and we need to be aligned to that. Pro-rata potential for India could be 150-200 private networks. There was no such demand study for the public networks of 4G, 3G or 2G.," said T V Ramachandran, President Broadband India Forum.

Govt assures international passengers' data privacy

ENS ECONOMIC BUREAU
@ New Delhi

A day after notifying the rules for collecting information related to international passengers, the government has assured that there would be adequate safeguards to ensure strict information privacy and data protection.

The finance ministry in a statement issued today tried to allay the data protection concerns raised due to the latest diktat. It said processing of the information to reveal ethnicity, race, religious or philosophical beliefs, health etc is strictly prohibited. "The information received is used for further processing only by a senior officer of the rank of principal additional director general or additional director general," said the finance ministry.

The government has also clarified that the intention of the regulations is to enhance detection, and investigative capabilities of Customs Authorities for combating offences related to smuggling of narcotics, gold, arms & ammunition.

"The Regulations strike a good balance between the needs of privacy and the imperatives of security," reiterated the finance ministry. The government on 8 August 2022 notified Passenger Name Record (PNR) Information Regulation, 2022 that requires aircraft operators to share with the customs department information on all international passengers.

It clarified that passengers are neither required to individually submit any information to Customs, nor do they need to furnish any additional information to the Airlines on account of these regulations.

It said that airlines are already collecting this information under the aegis of the Chicago Convention on International Civil Aviation, adding the objective of these regulations is to obtain this data in advance of departure or arrival of the passengers for analytics by the Customs Risk Management System.

More than just a silver for Armenia

SWAROOP SWAMINATHAN @ Chennai

IN the world of chess, former Soviet nations continue to sing the game's song. Chess was one of their biggest exports, so it continues to have an outsized influence in many cultures and societies that were once part of USSR. Their impact was also felt in Mahabalipuram at the Olympiad. Four of the five countries that medalled at the Olympiad — Georgia, Ukraine (women) and Armenia, Uzbekistan (open) — were part of it.

Of this, Armenia's silver demands deeper scrutiny. Among all countries that broke away, it's the one place that can be accurately described as 'chess mad' the most. Months after breaking up from USSR, they won their first Olympiad medal in 1992. In a 10-year period that began in 2002, they won five medals in the open section, including three gold. The last of those gold, which came in 2012, was preceded by a landmark education reform that said chess was going to be a compulsory school subject just like mathematics and science.

In 2011, the government passed a law to this effect. "We hope that Armenian teaching model might become among the best in the world," Armen Ashotyan, who was the country's education minister then, had said. As part of the programme, the government allocated $500,000 to draw up a syllabus and procure the appropriate equipment. The Guardian, who reported this news item, also mentioned they spent a further '$1mn for furniture for chess classrooms'. As it is, Armenia have the record for producing the most of Grandmasters per capita. With chess being taught in schools to kids, that will only increase in the coming years. Yet, chess caused most of the Armenians the biggest of heartaches the country has ever witnessed. In February 2021, Levon Aronian (World No 8), one of Armenia's greatest sportspersons — he was the main board on all three occasions they won gold — walked away. He decided to represent US, causing a deep rift among the very people that knew his openings and endgames by heart.

In this context, the silver that was secured on Tuesday will also help. "The silver will be very big for our team," Gabriel Sargissian, who played top-board, told this daily. The 38-year-old, whose only loss came against D Gukesh, expected to put up a fight but thought a medal was out of question when the team boarded the flight to Chennai. "No, no, no (if they thought they could win a medal)," he said. "We were No 12 seeds. We didn't expect this. Thought that we can maybe fight for a medal but not in this way. We played against all the strong teams (Uzbekistan, India A and India B, and US). "This will be very big for our team, a lot of new players. It should give them the confidence for the future. (At earlier Olympiads), we had a lot of good results but that was with a totally different team. This tournament is very special to us." He also addressed the thorny issue of Aronian's absence. Even if he felt a pang of regret, the admiration he has for him is clear. Without Aronian playing for Armenia for the first time since 2002, Sargissian believed they had no chance. It's why 'this tournament will be very important for us,' according to him. The problem Sargissian was referring to was messy.

Padded table, rolling chair... work behind Harika's dream

SWAROOP SWAMINATHAN @ Chennai

"IT'S been 18 years since my debut in the Indian women's chess team at the age of 13, and having played nine Olympiads so far, I always dreamt about being on the podium for Indian women's team and finally made it this time," penned D Harika, in an emotional post on social media.

"It's more emotional because I made it at nine months of pregnancy. When I heard about Olympiad being held in India and when my doctor said that it's possible to play if I stay healthy without any complications, since then my life revolved around making it to the Olympiad and winning the medal." While the 31-year-old made everything possible to realise her dreams, the wider Indian contingent worked in the background to ensure everything went smoothly, considering she's in the final trimester. An ambulance was on standby and a cardiologist was a phone call away. "She is accompanied by her husband and mother," delegation head, Pravin Thipsay, told this daily on the penultimate day of the Olympiad. "Any time she has labour pain, she can be shifted to a hospital within 10 minutes." While Harika didn't get the wins, she played her role to perfection not losing a single game. "She played her role to perfection. As top seeds, we needed to get at least 2.5 points. The lower boards were scoring higher and the top boards were trying to maintain equilibrium."

D Harika

Thipsay revealed that Harika, one of only two Indian women to have become a GM, faced some discomfort with the table. The organisers immediately added some cushioning to her side of the table to ensure her well being. In fact, she was given a rolling chair as well so that she could move around.

The women's A team were also the only Indian team to be put up to ensure she didn't have to travel. "Only 60 rooms were available here (at the venue)," he said. "It was difficult to accommodate everybody. AICF was left with very few rooms. They decided to give the rooms to this team because otherwise it would have been very difficult for the players to meet."

Benfica, Kyiv, Eindhoven & Rangers in CL play-offs

AFP @ Paris

TWO-TIME former champions Benfica will play Ukraine's Dynamo Kyiv while Ruud van Nistelrooy's PSV Eindhoven will face Glasgow Rangers after they all qualified for the final Champions League qualifying play-off round on Tuesday.

Luuk De Jong claimed an 109th-minute winner as PSV Eindhoven edged Monaco 3-2 in extra-time in the Netherlands, to go through 4-3 on aggregate. De Jong was adamant his side deserved the win.

Joey Veerman fired the Dutch ahead on 21mins with a sweet shot into the far corner but Guillermo Maripan then levelled clinically with a cool finish in a goalmouth scramble. Monaco striker Wissam Ben Yedder then raced on to a sweeping through ball to smack home the go-ahead goal before PSV grabbed a late equaliser as Mexican Erick Gutierrez delivered PSV on 89 minutes. Benfica beat Mitjylland 3-1 to win 7-2 on aggregate.

Earlier, Moldovans Sheriff Tiraspol were knocked out by Viktoria Plzen as the Czech outfit won 4-2 over two legs.

Now, CoA files contempt petition against Patel

AGENICES @ New Delhi

THE Committee of Administrators (CoA) currently running football in the country has filed a contempt petition against ousted AIFF president Praful Patel for "interfering with the proceedings" of the Supreme Court which last week ordered elections to the national federation.

In the contempt petition, the CoA said Patel "conducted a meeting of the 35 Intervening Member Associations (state associations of the AIFF) with the express purpose of interfering with the proceedings of this Hon'ble Court..." The petition also attached transcripts of the said meeting, which was conducted over Zoom at 11 am on August 8.

It said the contemners have "interfered with the administration of justice by committing gross contempt of the orders" passed by the top court. The petition made the plea to bar Patel "from participating in and holding any football related posts forthwith, including and not limited to positions in FIFA and AFC". It also requested the top court to initiate proceedings for contempt of court against the alleged contemners "for interference in the administration of justice, and the willful and flagrant disobedience of orders ... and punish them with maximum penalty in accordance with law". Along with Patel, the virtual meeting was attended by IFA (Bengal football body) chairman Subrata Dutta, Delhi Football chief Shaji Prabhakaran and five others, who form the seven-member committee to represent the state associations of the AIFF in the negotiations for the drafting of new constitution. All seven of them have also been made contemners along with Patel. If the contents of the transcripts submitted to the top court are proved, it will bring out in the open the murky dealings of Indian football, which have long been talked about in hushed tones. "...in the said meeting he has impliedly admitted to having arranged for the 05.08.2022 letter from FIFA-AFC," the contempt petition filed by former Chief Election Commissioner S Y Quraishi, on the behalf of the three-member CoA, said.

GOLD SMASH

From bronze to silver and now gold, 21-year-old ace shuttler Lakshya Sen has etched his name in history at the Commonwealth Games 2022 with the crown of champion in the Men's single category

MONIKA MONALISA

A GOLD at the Commonwealth Games debut and beating a world champion with a stunning comeback after losing the first game narrowly, and the exhaustion vanished giving way to exhilaration for Lakshya Sen who has travelled from Birmingham to Hyderabad and finally, Bengaluru.

The golden boy of the Men's single badminton, Sen was given a rousing reception with a live band playing the dhol. Before heading home, Sen went to the Prakash Padukone Badminton Academy, where he was coached by the champion Prakash Padukone, who was the first to win a gold medal at the 1978 Commonwealth Games in Edmonton, and former national champion Vimal Kumar. For a champion, the place where he hones his skills is always sacred, and Sen was extremely grateful to his coaches for his victory by pummelling Malaysia's Ng Tze Yong. Earlier, in the Commonwealth Games, he was part of the silver-winning Indian mixed team.

After an hour of the excruciating battle with the racquet, Sen's moment of glory was demonstrated by shirt-throwing into the crowd and sending the racquet into the air. "It was not planned. I was so happy that I didn't know what to do," says Sen coyly.

Encountering a rough start, he was prepared for it. "I didn't play the Malaysia Open to give myself a break, and try to get back to training again. I was really looking forward to playing the Commonwealth Games. The way the tournament shaped out, I was not very confident, but once I went there and played a few matches, I regained my confidence. My game kept getting better and better," reveals Sen, who was also part of the Indian squad which clinched the Thomas Cup title.

On the firmament of badminton, he is now a lodestar, and Sen is aware of the fanfare which comes with it. And he is enjoying it. "In one of the matches in Birmingham, there were many Indian spectators who were cheering for India. I waved my hands at them as a sign for them to cheer more, which kept getting louder and louder. It's a terrific feeling," says the young player.

Riding the wave of an international victory, Sen has no time to waste with a packed itinerary ahead. "I will try to recover first, and we (the winners) have to meet Prime Minister Narendra Modi on August 12. After that, I will resume training for the world championship," says the 21-year-old, who hates ice baths which help athletes recover.

What does the champ do when he is not following a gruelling training regime or thrashing opponents? Like anyone his age, Sen hangs out with friends. "Since I stay far away from the city, I have to plan out my day when I catch up with friends. I also love playing on my playstation and watching thrillers," says Sen, who moved to Bengaluru from Uttarakhand, when he was about nine to fulfil his 'lakshya' of becoming a champion shuttler.

'HE WAS UNDER A LOT OF PRESSURE TO WIN'

"Four weeks prior to the Commonwealth Games when Sen was playing in Malaysia – just after the Thomas Uber Cup – he had shoulder issues. It was quite painful and when he came back and was in Mumbai for recovery. He was really down. During the practice sessions, he felt he was not playing well enough. At that point I said, 'No, you are going to play the matches. When you start playing a few matches, you will automatically get your strokes right.' I also told him that he's a top player, and once he gets to the arena, things would fall into place'. And that's exactly what happened. I am now so happy for him, because he was under so much pressure to win matches." — Vimal Kumar, coach

CELEBRATING FREEDOM

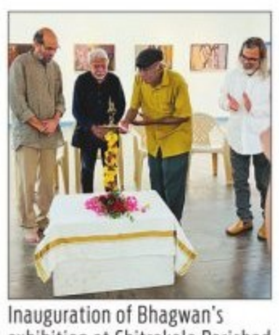
Bhagwan S Chavan, a renowned painter who has conducted several solo exhibitions across India, is now conducting another which is close to his patriotic heart. With 75 paintings on Indian flag sized canvas, his show will be travelling to other cities from Bengaluru. He writes about his inspiration for his latest project.

Seventy five years ago, on this day, India was reborn. Breaking free from the shackles of British occupation, the country took its first steps to become what it is today a thriving, multicultural society which happens to be the world's largest democracy.



Inauguration of Bhagwan's exhibition at Chitrakala Parishad

India has come a long way since Independence, from the agony of partition to becoming the second fastest growing economy, and in the process has lifted millions out of poverty, become a global powerhouse in technology and healthcare, has a robust space program, and an equally flourishing movie entertainment industry. It is a space and nuclear power, and yet remains a torch bearer of democratic values.

Even as it is a symbol of modernisation, India is also an ancient land, with its traditions, art and culture being preserved over the centuries. In art, Indian artists have been creators of not just works but whole movements. Three of those are the Bengal and Bombay schools and the Madras Art Movement. From these innovative and indeed rebellious, efforts great Indian artists have emerged and become part of the global movement and market.

As a painter, and a patriot, I will be part of the ongoing 75th Azadi ka Amrit Mahotsav celebration. My mission is to create 75 paintings this year on Indian flag sized canvases. The show was inaugurated at Chitrakala Parishad and will also travel to Chennai, Delhi, and Mumbai to mark this celebration and symbolise equally, the unity and the diversity of this country and its people.

MISS-FIT

Wanitha Ashok

Wanitha Ashok is a Fit India Movement Ambassador and celebrity fitness coach

1 In your previous column, you had mentioned about intermittent fasting. Is it the right way to break your fast?

A: Thumb rule is to start with healthy fat and end it with protein. I would suggest a glass of water followed by seven to eight soaked almonds or dates as it is quick and handy. Include ample vegetables, adequate protein, and whole grain carbs in moderate amounts. A fast does not mean you can feast. So, avoid consuming lactose and cruciferous vegetables after a fast as they are difficult to digest especially as you start aging.

2 One of the reasons I am scared of working out is because someone told me it kills sex drive. Is it true?

A: Exercise ramps up pleasure like any other activity that gets the heart rate up. Breathing harder boosts blood flow in the body, including in the nether region. But over-exercising will leave you tired, fatigued, and drained and hence, kills the drive. Exercises that can enhance your blood flow are plank, core exercises, bridge, keg training, pelvic thrust, frog pose, cat/cow stretch and swimming.

3 Will it help if I work out for two hours once a week to burn the calories I would have consumed through the week?

A : No way, smarty-pants! This is not gonna help you at all. In fact, your body will be stressed and promote the release of cortisol hormones which impedes weight loss. The excess calories are converted into fat, and stored in the body where there are excess fat cells. There is spot gain but no spot reduction. The body decides where the fat is utilised as energy. Indulge in moderation.

BEATING FUNCTIONAL BOWEL DISEASE

This problem can start due to dietary factors, changes in the microbiome or even stressful events

DR NARESH BHAT

FUNCTIONAL gastrointestinal disorders (FGID) are characterised by persistent gastrointestinal (GI) symptoms. Many suffer due to lack of relief from standard prescriptions. Over 40 per cent of the patients coming to the GI OPD are diagnosed with FGID.

Why does FGID occur?

Symptoms originate in the GI tract, but no structural or biochemical abnormalities are observed. Medical tests are normal. The keywords used to describe them are visceral hypersensitivity and Gut Brain Axis disorders as these symptoms, though originate in the gut, are modulated by signals from the brain to the nerves in the gut. There is an interplay of the gut motility, microbiome, nerve transmitters in the GI tract and perception in the brain. So, the problem can start due to dietary factors or stressful events.

Two of the most common types of FGID are Irritable Bowel Syndrome (IBS) and Functional Dyspepsia (FD). IBS is a group of symptoms that can affect the digestive system, causing pain in the abdomen, change in bowel habits, and bloating. The challenge is to exclude sinister diseases like cancer, tuberculosis and Crohn's disease.

People with FD generally have upper abdomen bloating, burning and belching, which is one of the most common functional disorders. A diagnosis is done after ensuring that a gastroscopy has excluded ulcer disease and stomach cancer.

How is FGID diagnosed?

With routine tests showing negative for those with FGID, these disorders cannot be based on test results. Rome Criteria is used to help diagnose a patient with FGID, and also classify it. The diagnosis is made when a patient's combination of symptoms and other factors meet the Rome criteria for a specific functional disorder. An experienced doctor usually diagnoses the disorders based on symptoms reported by the patient over six months. These patients may also frequently be affected by migraine, fibromyalgia, pelvic pain and urinary disorders.

Psychosocial aspects

It is important to understand that FGID is not a psychiatric disorder, and largely managed by gastroenterologists. But psychological stress can exacerbate FGID symptoms. There is a bi-directional pathway between the brain and the GI tract, known as the 'brain gut axis'. It is found that external stressors and emotions or thoughts can affect GI sensation, motility and secretion. In other words, the brain affects the gut. Also, psychosocial disturbances can amplify illness experience and can impair quality of life.

Treatments

The modalities of treatment vary and depend on the symptoms. A sympathetic, patient listening, and understanding the suffering is the first step. Symptomatic therapy for pain, constipation, bloating, nausea and diarrhoea are used. Various neuro-modulators, which modify the signals from the gut and brain, are often the mainstay of therapy. Breathing techniques, biofeedback therapy, yoga and meditation are also beneficial too. Rarely, we need to use relaxation therapy, hypnosis or cognitive behavioural therapy. Around 80-90 per cent of people with FGID have shown excellent relief from their symptoms.

Brain fog may not be limited only to humans: Study

Worried about brain fog, which affects learning, memory, and problem-solving abilities, after your Covid infection? Take heart, you are not alone. The impairment is also seen across animal species, finds a new study. A team of researchers from Hamilton College, Virginia Tech and University of Nevada found that species across the animal kingdom, from humans and rats to birds and bees, show signs of cognitive impairment with disease. The reasons for this are variable, including damage by the parasite, immune response to infection, and malnutrition, they wrote in a paper published in the journal Trends in Ecology and Evolution. "We're seeing an accelerated emergence of all of these infectious diseases, and yet we know little about how disease might affect cognition and the implications of this for wild animals as well as for humans," said lead author Andrea K Townsend. — IANS

Workplace closure boosted mental well-being during pandemic: Study

While restrictions invoked to curb the transmission of Covid-19 hit the mental health of women, young adults the most, closure of the workplace actually boosted people's mental well-being during the pandemic, according to a study. The severe restrictions meant to curb the spread of the Covid-19 virus achieved their immediate goal of saving lives by limiting the exposure to the virus. However, these measures have also had a lasting impact on the mental health of large sections. The study, led by researchers at Bocconi University in Italy, finds these effects on psychological well-being have hit certain social groups harder, especially (but not exclusively) women with children living at home. — IANS

I'M CRAZY AND SO WILL BE MY FILMS: RAVICHANDRAN

A still from the film Ravi Bopanna

The filmmaker talks about his upcoming film, Ravi Bopanna which is slated for release this week

CE FEATURES

ACTOR-filmmaker Ravichandran is set to return to direction with Ravi Bopanna, which he is also making under his home banner, Eswari Productions. The production house launched by his father N Veeraswamy turns 50 this year. "Since the film is being made under the banner of Eswari Productions, the responsibility is higher, and the onus is on me to justify it," says Ravichandran.

Ravi Bopanna is a remake of the Malayalam film, Joseph (2018), starring Joju George and directed by M Padmakumar. Ravichandran clarifies that he has only taken the soul of the original and has reworked it completely to make it a fresh experience. "It took me 11 months to rework everything. As a result, Ravi Bopanna is a well-constructed film with a totally new feel to it. I don't want the audience to come in with the mindset of watching a remake. Just travel with me, and you will get a new experience," assures Ravichandran.

The filmmaker, who carries a 'Crazy' image, asserts that his films will also have that craziness. "I'm becoming crazy because of you all, and so will be my films," he says.

As someone who never gets satisfied with his work, Ravichandran believes in experimenting consistently. "I always said turning 60 is a new beginning, and it is also a learning for me. Not that the work I have done is bad, but I always look to do something better. I make films for the people, and I try to give them maximum entertainment."

Ravichandran is one of those filmmakers who likes to take up all the responsibilities. Is it because he doesn't trust anyone or is it his interest in working independently? "I like people to join me, and I will give up on most of the work, except for direction and acting. But when I don't get what I want, I prefer striving to get it all alone. Filmmaking is not a 9 to 5 job. Over the past four months, I have burnt the midnight oil to work on this film." According to Ravichandran, Ravi Bopanna is like a cocktail with a lot of emotions in it. He will be seen in three looks in the project. "My looks will stand out in the film, and it will be something that haunts the audience even after they exit the theatres," adds the veteran, who believes that Ravi Bopanna is definitely a rejuvenation in his career. "This film brought me back to learning about cinema from the scratch."

Ravi Bopanna starring Radhika Kumaraswamy and Kavya Shetty is also bolstered by Sudeep, who appears in a brief-but-pivotal role. "I'm glad to have my 'elder son' Sudeep in the film, and his voice will be one of the highlights in Ravi Bopanna," signs off Ravichandran.

GAALIPATA 2 CAN CONNECT TO PEOPLE OF ALL AGES: YOGARAJ BHAT

A still from the film Gaalipata 2

A SHARADHAA

Flying a Gaalipata (kite) is a community activity, and director Yogaraj Bhat feels that just like how the kite flies when the thread is thin, his films too might have a simple story, but it is fun when other aspects fall in place.

Talking about the original Gaalipata, Yogaraj says, "I never thought a film like Gaalipata would still be spoken about. Even after 14 years, viewers still enjoy the songs, and the reruns of the film on television. The power of friendship is what brought Gaalipata to me, and it eventually became a public film. It feels fascinating each time when people tell me that Gaalipata made them feel good. I hope Gaalipata 2, which is also a film on friendship, too comes out with flying colors."

Apart from friendship, Gaalipata 2, also brings in the relationship between a teacher and his students. "Anant Sir (Anant Nag) plays a Kannada maestru and his emotional journey with the students is the backbone of Gaalipata 2," says Yogaraj Bhat, who adds that this time, he has also brought the iconic relationship between mother and son, and between a father and son. "The bonding creates a special zeal, and it is something even I want to sit and watch it as an audience," he says.

Yogaraj Bhat says a subject like Gaalipata can be categorised as world cinema, because it has a universal theme. "Though everything around us is changing with technology, we still go and enjoy the 2 idlis and dosas. We still have tears coming from our eyes, and we still laugh. The human tale is something that can never change. We are still surrounded by basic human relationships, especially with friends. That's how a film like Gaalipata 2 can connect to all ages, and everywhere," he says.

Yogaraj Bhat

Yogaraj Bhat says he has a long list of close friends, residing all across the globe, and he always valued them, especially their friendly fights and cuss words. "Knowing someone is a big task. However, trusting someone is very easy. To make somebody understand us, and to understand them has become difficult today. Having said that, life is perfect with friends. All in all, I have close friends, and their only problem has been that I don't answer their calls," he chuckles.

Yogaraj Bhat's film usually has the presence of animals. While it was Rabbit that played cupid in Mungaru Male, he brought in a pig in Gaalipata. "This time, I have brought in a dog in Gaalipata 2, and have portrayed how its life is better than human beings," he says.

Sharing his experiences of making Gaalipata 2, Yogaraj says, "Two lockdowns helped to make Gaalipata 2 better. We shot the film in difficult locations. The shooting process in Kazakhstan was more like an adventure. I salute producer Ramesh Reddy, and also the team, who made it possible for us. The portrayals, the background, the host of actors, the music by Arjun Janya, and rich visuals by Santhosh Rai Pathaje have brought together Gaalipata 2," he says.

Yogaraj Bhat says that as a director, he can pen as many stories and direct as many films on friendship, and never get bored. "I hope the Gaalipata journey continues."

The friendship theme in Gaalipata 2 is what caught my attention: Ramesh Reddy

RAMESH Reddy, a former mason who turned producer with Uppu Huli Khara, is known for backing the National Award-winning film, Nathicharami. Gaalipata 2 is the 5th and biggest venture so far made under the Suraj Production banner. "Post Uppu Huli Khara, I have now understood 70 per cent of how the industry works and there is a lot more to learn," says the producer.

> – Ramesh Reddy, producer

The friendship theme in Gaalipata 2 is what caught the attention of Ramesh. "I spend more time with friends than with family, and I value them a lot. I have friends who have travelled with me for 40 years. They are always by me during happy tidings, and at times of difficulties too. All we look forward is to spend quality time with each other." he says.

Sudha Murty

Sudha Murty (educator, author, philanthropist, and chairperson of the Infosys Foundation) is the reason behind me producing Gaalipata 2, says Ramesh, adding, "It was during our visit to Tirupati that Yogaraj Bhat called Sudha Murty ma'am to speak about the project. She is my guru, and I consider her as my godmother. She just informed me about Yogaraj Bhat's call about the project, and I took it from there. That's how Gaalipata 2 fell in my kitty." The producer, who has watched Gaalipata 2, said that Yogaraj Bhat has balanced it with elements of comedy, love, family sentiments, and bundled with emotions. "I enjoyed Anant Nag's portrayal as a teacher, and Ganesh's sentimental turn in Gaalipata 2. I am looking forward to the film." The romantic drama is slated to release on August 12, will be out in around 200-plus theatres across Karnataka. Gaalipata 2 will also be released in certain countries, including the USA and Canada.

MITHYA is the latest production venture of Rakshit Shetty's Paramvah Pictures production. The shooting of the film written and directed by Sumanth Bhat has been completed and it is said to be a coming-of-age story of an eleven-year-old boy, Mithya.

"Our industry needs all kinds of films. We need to welcome fresh stories and new-age storytellers who bring newer perspectives to filmmaking. Paramvah wants to associate itself with novel content to widen the spectrum of narratives. Mithya is one such beautiful attempt," says Rakshit Shetty.

Sumanth Bhat, the software engineer-turned-filmmaker, has been part of the writing team of Paramvah. He has also written and directed four of the seven episodes of Ekam, a yet-to-release web series, presented by Paramvah Studios. Mithya marks his first feature film debut.

"Mithya traces the journey of an 11-year-old, who is coming to terms with the loss of his parents. The passing away of a young couple, which orphaned their two kids. This triggered a chain of thoughts in my mind. 'How would the little kids come to terms with the loss?' 'How long will it take for the wounds to heal, or do they?' 'How do children grieve?' Mithya is an attempt to find answers to these," shares the director.
